The Attack On St. Francis

The story said that Kenneth Roberts was dead at his home in Kennebunkport, Maine.

I put down the paper and let the mind run on. I could feel a tingle in the scalp and a tensing of the body. This was because, once again, I was crouched in the woods outside the Indian village of St. Francis waiting for the dawn. There was the strident crowing of a rooster, and a dog barked mournfully, fitfully, but in no alarm . . . the dawn came and the mist blew up from the river and through it, like a veil, there was the town which for nearly a century had terrorized New England. . . . "Rogers came back, loosened his hatchet in his belt, picked up his musket; then swung his arm scythe-like. The white-smeared Indians, the whole long line of green-clad, bearded men, rose to their feet and began to run into the clearing. . . ."

Of the many scenes read in many books none has been so deeply etched in memory as the one from Roberts' "Northwest Passage." Remembering it is to feel one's self there—one of Rogers' Rangers, waiting for dawn and the attack.

Historic March

Robert Rogers' Rangers had made one of the historic marches of all the history of this continent to reach that Indian village undetected. The country was up against them. But Rogers had tricked the French and their Indian allies and got through. The story of that march, and the attack on St. Francis, with its more than 700 scalps blowing lazily from the poles before the lodges, is one of the great epics of our history, taken from the French and Indian wars which began in 1755.

Destroying the village of St. Francis was but the peak of the drama. There was still the long and bitter retreat, starving and harassed, with the Indian and French forces on their heels, like packs of dogs. No one has made the history of our beginnings come alive as has Roberts. His ancestors all served in the continental service. Their old letters and the stories handed down about them interested him in writing.

"After I'd been reading and digging for a few years," the author wrote a friend, "I began to get a sort of broad picture of what had gone on in Maine and New England in the old days. It dawned on me that nobody had ever written it.

"You could find out what happened when Arnold's troops marched to Quebec. But you couldn't get the relation of the march to the war or to the country or to the people. You couldn't find out what sort of people made the march. . . ."

Research Years

A stickler for facts, he spent long years of research before writing. Three years, for example, went into the material for Northwest Passage before he began to write. Robert Rogers, and the tragic deterioration of the man, is one of the little known stories of those years.

Roberts, a positive, irascible man, whose blunt opinions alienated many, treated Benedict Arnold with sympathy. He was convinced, from his research, that this able officer acted out of honorable motives. Arnold believed that because of the ineptness of the Continental Congress, the colonies would fall under French sway. Arnold preferred them to be English. A book, "Oliver Wiswell," is built around that conclusion. For those who like history, and historical fiction of great authenticity, "Arundel," "Rabble in Arms," "Northwest Passage" and "Oliver Wiswell" are all necessary reading.

He had been newspaper man, magazine writer and war correspondent in earlier years. Always a man of perception, he denounced Greece's King Constantine as a corrupt king and said that his war with the Turks would result disastrously for Greece. It did.

In his last years he had developed an enthusiam for "dowsing," and had done a book on the successes of Henry Gross, a Maine game warden, in locating water with the rod.

But if one wants to live with Rogers' Rangers or march on Quebec in the French and Indian wars, Roberts' books will make it possible.

South Smothers Rights Backers In 2 Test Votes

By ALBERT RILEY
(Constitution Washington Bureau)

WASHINGTON, July 23—The Senate today defeated two Northern liberal attempts to save Part 3 of the Civil Rights Bill and moved toward a showdown vote tomorrow on striking most of that section from the bill.

Under heavy attack from Southerners, Part 3 is the section of the bill that would empower the attorney general to seek federal court injunctions to enforce all kinds of civil rights.

The senate will vote late tomorrow on an amendment by Sens. Anderson (D-NM), Aiken (R-Vt) and Case (R-SD) to eliminate most of Part 3 and thereby confine the bill to a protection of voting rights.

KNOWLAND CONCEDES

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland, who is spearheading the fight for the bill, conceded that he could not muster enough strength to salvage Part 3, even in modified form. He said he told the President at a White House talk today the Senate was "quite likely" to delete the section.

In today's action, the Senate rejected, 61 to 29, what amounted to a substitute amendment by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) that would have permitted the attorney general to seek civil rights injunctions only at the direction of the President.

Both the Southerners and the advocates of a strong civil rights bill then teamed up to defeat, 81 to 8, another amendment by Sen. Cooper (R-Ky).

Cooper's amendment would have authorized the attorney general to act only when local authorities are trying to comply with a federal court order and are being opposed by a conspiracy of local citizens.

WENT TOO FAR

While the Southerners want none of Part 3's enforcement powers, the Northern liberals seemed to believe that Cooper's amendment went too far in weakening the bill.

Encouraged by today's victories, backed by Senate Majority Leader Johnson and having picked up powerful Republican support, the Southerners have an excellent chance of getting the Anderson-Aiken-Case amendment adopted tomorrow, confining the bill to voting rights.

Meanwhile, today's federal court jury verdict in Clinton, Tenn., convicting John Kasper and six codefendants in a school integration contempt case, raised Dixie hopes of getting a jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill.

The vote on the Anderson-Aiken-Case amendment is expected to be closer than today's test on the Bricker amendment. It could hinge on what President Eisenhower has to say at his

DeKalb Husband Kills 3-Week Bride and Self

By KEELER McCARTNEY

A 29-year-old former serviceman Tuesday evidently killed his bride of three weeks as she attempted to flee from their home and then blasted out his own life with a shotgun, police said.

The bodies of Crafton M. Engesser and his wife, Mrs. Lydia Engesser, 25, were found in the living room of the home at 2080 Terry Mill Rd., SE. DeKalb Detectives D. H. Clotfelter and J. E. Helms Jr. said Mrs. Engesser had been shot in the back with a shotgun and Engesser was shot through the chest.

Detective W. B. Blackwell, of the Atlanta police homicide squad, who lives next door at 2086 Terry Mill Rd., heard the shots and found the bodies.

HEARD GUNSHOT

Blackwell said he thought he heard a gunshot at 1:55 p.m. and an hour later, while preparing to go to work, thought he heard two more shots. This time, Blackwell said, he was able to determine that the shots came from the Engesser residence.

Rushing over, he said, he found the front and back doors securely locked. Looking through a window of the living room, he saw Mrs. Engesser sprawled beside the front door. He said Engesser was on the floor attempting to get up.

FOUND ENGESSERS

"I yelled for a neighbor across the street to telephone for the DeKalb County police and an ambulance," Blackwell said. "Then I ran back home and got an ice pick so that I could unlatch a window screen."

Once inside the house Blackwell said he found Mrs. Engesser apparently already dead. He said Engesser continued to struggle to rise for a few moments and then collapsed.

Both were pronounced dead upon arrival of a physician, he said.

Detectives said Mr. and Mrs. Engesser were at the home of Engesser's mother, Mrs. Mamie Engesser. The mother was away during the afternoon. Overcome when she learned of the two deaths she was placed in a hospital.

Engesser had been at the Veterans Administration hospital in Augusta and was sent home in June on a trial visit, detectives were told. They said the Engessers were married three weeks ago and were planning to leave for a honeymoon in Florida.

DeKalb officers said they reconstructed the double shooting this way;

No one was injured when the first shotgun blast was fired at

Army To Call Only 8,000 In September

WASHINGTON, July 23 (UP)—The Defense Department issued a scaled-down September draft call for 8,000 men today but emphasized it has no intention of eliminating conscription "in the near future."

It also announced a tightening up of Army personnel standards in a move to weed out less competent GI's in favor of men with the specialized skills needed in the atomic age.

The September draft quota, all for the Army, was 3,000 below the August figures and was the smallest monthly levy since April, 1956, when 6,000 men were called to uniform.

The cut was ordered in connection with Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's recent order to the military services to trim 100,000 men from their rolls by next January. The Army, the only service now relying on the draft, will bear the brunt of the cutbacks.

All-White Clinton Jury Convicts Kasper and 6 Of Contempt, Acquits 4

Jury Trials Vindicated, Russell Says

From Wire Reports

Southern senators said Tuesday the conviction of segregationist John Kasper and six Clinton, Tenn., residents destroyed a major argument against trial by jury in civil rights cases.

Sen. Russell of Georgia, leader of the Southern bloc, said the verdict "demonstrates the truth of the argument that we have made that Southern jurors have as high regard for their oath" as jurors in any other section.

REFUTES UNFIT CHARGE

The verdict "completely refutes the charge that Southern people are unworthy of trust and perjure themselves in this type of case," Russell added.

Other senators outside the South agreed that the jury trial advocates have gained ground as a result of the verdict. Others, including those who pointed out that Knoxville in east Tennessee is not historically a "Southern" section and the action there was not necessarily comparable to the Deep South, said they saw no connection in the verdict and the debatable Part 3 section.

The section in the pending civil rights bill would authorize the attorney general to apply for federal court injunctions to prevent violations of civil rights. Persons disregarding such injunctions could be punished by a federal judge for contempt, without jury trial.

JAVITS DISAGREES

Sen. Javits (R-NY) said he doesn't believe the Clinton verdict will affect the Senate's vote on jury trial amendments.

"Only the opponents of the bill are contending that we are trying to say that Southern juries can't be trusted," he said. "We are not trying to change the law, they are. As the law stands, where the United States in a plaintiff, there is no provision for jury trials in contempt cases."

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) read to the Senate a wire report on the verdict. He said he did not "presume" to say whether the verdict was right or wrong—"I only advise the Senate that a Southern all-white jury has acted."

Gore said that whether senators agree with this verdict, or

This Lawsuit Isn't Over, Says Defense

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 23 (AP)—An all-white jury in a surprise verdict today convicted segregation leader John Kasper and six codefendants in the Clinton criminal contempt trial.

They face up to six months in jail and fines up to $1,000 or both.

The jury, which had been exhorted by defense lawyers to preserve the traditional "Southern way of life," deliberated two hours and 20 minutes before bringing in its verdict convicting seven of the 11 defendants of all three counts in the 12-day-old trial in U. S. District Court here. The other four were acquitted.

DEFENSE DAZED

Defense lawyers, who had confidently predicted a mass acquittal, appeared dazed as jury foreman Powell May, Knoxville, intoned the word "Guilty" after each of the seven names.

Chief Defense Counsel Robert L. Dobbs of Memphis, his face flushed and angry-red, refused to concede that the verdict constituted a heavy blow to prosegregation forces, who are fighting against the mixing of whites and Negroes in Dixie schools.

Previously, defense spokesmen had characterized the trial as a "history-making" event and declared that its outcome would exert a strong influence on the future course of court-ordered integration in the South.

NEW TRIAL ASKED

"This lawsuit isn't over yet," Dobbs said firmly. "We have filed a motion for a new trial. If that is denied, we will appeal to a higher court."

U. S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford Jr., the lanky, booming-voiced prosecutor who conducted the government's case, took the victory for his side without apparent elation.

"My staff and I endeavored to try this case like any government case. The jury has spoken by its verdict. I have no other comment,"

Mayor Orders Probe Of Swiss Swan's Death

By ALLAN HEAD

Whether Atlanta's Swiss swan died of starvation and neglect or was killed by a youngster is to be made the object of an "investigation," Atlanta Mayor Hartsfield said Tuesday.

The Swiss consul said Monday he believed the bird died of "starvation and neglect." Zoo officials immediately denied this, saying they believed the swan had its neck twisted by some impulsive youngster.

The swan, one of a pair flown from Switzerland to Atlanta as "ambassadors of goodwill," died in the small pond at Grant Park last Thursday. The news was not made public until Monday, however, when Swiss consul Michael Hack called park officials to ask what had happened to the swan.

Mayor Hartsfield disclosed the investigation in explaining why no official expression of regret has been sent from the city of Atlanta to Swiss consular officials, who arranged for the swans to be flown here.

"That would have to wait until we get the facts," said Hartsfield. "We'll look into it and make some report to somebody," he added.

Questioned further, he formulated an officials statement:

"I have asked the superintendent of parks to investigate and give me a complete report on the matter. We will then decide what is the proper thing to do."

Park Commissioner George Simons was unavailable for immediate comment.

It was not learned how the investigation was to be conducted. The swan's body, according to Grant Park foreman A. E. Walls, was sent to the city disposal plant after it was found dead last Thursday noon.

Zoo officials said its death was accepted as accidental and no effort made to determine the exact cause. Walls said the bird's identification band was not removed before it was sent to the disposal plant.

It is still not known which of the two swans—named Heidi and Joggeli died.

The remaining swan is now at the larger pond in Grant Park. Simons said earlier he had it transferred there after Hack called him Monday.

Whisky Price-Cutters Atone By Giving to Recreation Fund

Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams said Tuesday he would take no punitive action against four Hawkinsville liquor store owners for price-cutting after they "volunteered" to give $150 each to a city recreation center drive.

Williams could have ordered forfeiture of the licensees' $2,500 bonds or even revoked their licenses for the offenses.

"I didn't consider their violations were malicious enough to forfeit the bonds," the commissioner declared. But he added he wanted some way to "bring them back in line."

Williams said he asked whether the licensees would contribute to a Hawkinsville recreation center fund-raising drive if he did not exact punishment. He said they all agreed.

The stores and licensees were listed as: City Package Store, Joseph O. Slade Jr.; Mack's Liquor Store, James M. McDuffie; Bell's Liquor Store, Robert A. Bell, and Corner Liquor Store, Charles E. Darsey.

There are five package stores in Hawkinsville, Williams said.

He reported that revenue department agents had purchased liquor at the four named stores below legally established prices. A hearing was held on the violations here Tuesday.

Rights Battlers Know Political Stake Is Big

By JAMES RESTON
(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, July 23—Nobody mentions it in the Senate debate, but the two major political parties are acutely conscious of thhe political stakes in the current civil rights fight.

Many Republican leaders see in their party's civil rights bill the possibility of (1) breaking the Democratic hold on Negro voters in Northern cities and (2) extending the GOP's influence into the Democratic South.

They do not anticipate any startling change in the voting pattern for congressional seats in the 1958 election, even if the equal-voting-rights section of the civil rights bill is passed this year, but they do think that adoption of this section alone would enable the GOP to campaign as the champion of Negro rights.

Liberal Northern Democrats are aware of the long-range possibility. They have watched the slow erosion of their party's strength in the last two elections. And they concede that passage of an effective civil rights bill would strengthen this trend, particularly if the Republicans could get more of the stay-at-home

Official Used Textile Union Funds For Undies and TV, Probers Say

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, July 23—Senate investigators implied today that an officer of the United Textile Workers spent union funds for personal shopping for himself and his wife.

Brassieres, slips, a television set, a milking stool, a golfer's lamp were the items mentioned today with reference to the bills of Lloyd Klenert, secretary-treasurer of the union.

Convenient sources in golf did not know what a golfer's lamp was, but speculated that it was a reading or decorative lamp rather than players' equipment.

The hearings before the Select Committee on Improper Practices in the Labor or Management Field recessed for the day without probing further into these and related items.

The committee chairman, Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) introduced the personal spending angle during the testimony of Charles Emerson, of Winnsboro, SC, one of three trustees of the union.

The trustees are rank-and-file members designated to make periodic checks of the union's accounts.

Sen. McClellan asked Emerson if he ever had examined Klenert's hotel bills.

"We looked at them," said the witness.

"Did you find any brassieres on them?

"If we did we'd probably ask him did he wear them," the witness giggled, apparently enjoying the inquiry.

"Did you find any slips, or any radios" (on these bills)? the chairman asked. Emerson said he hadn't.

If he found a TV set charged to the union what would he do?

"I presume we'd turn it over to the executive council."

"Or a milk stool, or a golfer's lamp," the chairman went on, referring to papers or documents in front of him.

"Would it surprise you to know

House Votes Raises For Postal Workers

379-38 Vote Could Override Veto Threatened by President

By C. P. TRUSSELL

(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, July 23—The House today formalized its tentative decision of yesterday to recommend a pay increase of $546 a year to more than 500,000 postal workers. The recorded vote, 379-38, was 101 in excess of a two-thirds majority required to override a threatened presidential veto.

A breakdown on the vote shows 217 Democrats and 162 Republicans for the bill and 29 Republicans and 9 Democrats against it.

The administration had opposed the pay rise stubbornly as a measure that would set off an inflationary round of increases. Awaiting House and Senate actions were committee-approved bills to raise the pay of nearly 1,000,000 white-collar workers in other branches of the government.

In the Senate, unanimous consent was obtained by Sen. Johnston (D-SC), chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, for the measure to go immediately to the calendar.

NO COMPETITION

Thus, the House-approved bill could not enter into competition with the Senate committee's own bill that would grant pay rises of only 7½ per cent plus temporary cost-of-living increases for lower bracket employes. A taking up of the House bill apparently would bypass the Senate committee with its chairman's permission. The House bill averaged about 12½ per cent in increases.

It was predicted in some quarters that a motion to accept the House bill would sweep through the Senate, at a cost estimated at more than $300,000,000 a year, against a cost of $269,000,000 recommended by the Senate bill.

President Eisenhower was represented to be still stanchly opposed to the postal pay raises.

Today's House action seemingly left the President in a poor posture to veto a postal pay increase. The Senate, in the past, has been as eager as the House to approve such rises. The so-called postal lobby is a powerful one.

BUDGET CUTTING

A surprising thing about the House victory of the postal pay bill was the fact that the drive for raises started in the midst of Congress' relentless cutting of budgets. Many old-timers at the Capitol who had watched countless budget fights professed to see no hope for the postal workers.

They were fooled.

Seldom has any issue met with the appeal made by the postal people. At issue was a postal employe complaint that their salaries had not kept up with rising living costs.

On behalf of the postal workers it was debated that their pay was so small they were forced to get off-time jobs—as filling station attendants, clerks,—anything—and get jobs for their wives and children to keep up with living costs.

The few opponents of the pay rise contended that, while salary increases had been slow during the six-year period, a view of a 12-year period would show increases up to more than 150 per cent.

The average annual wage of the postal workers who would benefit by the bill is $4,340.

British Give 48 Hours to Rebel Tribes

LONDON, July 23 (AP)—British warplanes have showered rebel tribesmen with leaflets bearing a 48 - hour ultimatum expiring tonight to call off their revolt against the Sultan of Muscat and Oman.

Sir Bernard Burrows, British resident in the oil-rich Persian Gulf area, announced the ultimatum to newsmen at Bahrain today, and said RAF fighters from Aden will stage an "armed demonstration" if it is not heeded. He said a "shoot to kill" order would be issued to the airmen if the demonstration proved ineffective.

PLEA FOR SUPPORT

Both the ultimatum and a second leaflet calling on the inhabitants to rally to Britain's friend, 40-year-old Sultan Said bin Taimur, were dropped within a radius of 50 miles around Nizwa. Nizwa is the center of the rebellion launched four days ago by followers of Imam Ghaleb Ben Ali, religious ruler of Oman, who was driven into exile in Saudi Arabia two years ago.

Some 1,500 rebels have seized control of 5,000 square miles of the Sultan's 82,000 square - mile kingdom of hot sand and mountains.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told the House of Commons the dropping of leaflets was the only action taken so far by the Royal Air Force apart from "action against certain forts in the area held by dissident tribesmen." He did not describe the type of "action."

FULL SUPPORT

Lloyd pledged "full support" for the Sultan of the tiny Arabian peninsula state with which Britain has had treaty relations since 1839.

He declared the government was taking steps to cut off the rebels' supply of arms coming from the "outside." He refused to say where he thought these arms were coming from—but left the impression he meant Saudi Arabia.

Lloyd said there was no question of sending large ground forces into the remote and difficult desert territory where the temperature climbs to 130 degrees. Sending troops, he said, would be an "example of military futility."

CHICAGO, July 23 (UP) — An irate husband charged in superior court today that it was contempt of court for his wife to send him clothes ripped to shreds.

Benjamin Rosengard produced photographs of his torn wardrobe, which he said his wife sent to him packed in two barrels. He argued that since his divorce suit charging his wife, Ellen, with adultery is still pending, contents of the home shouldn't have been disturbed until the court ruled.

Picked Up Near Sheppard's Home by Convict Who 'Confessed' the Slaying, Hitchhiker Says

WATERLOO, Iowa, July 23 (AP). "Missing witness" Ernest J. Kolofolias today identified a Florida convict as the blood-stained motorist who picked him up near the lakefront home where Marilyn Sheppard was murdered.

E. J. Kolofolias

The chief attorney for Dr. Samuel Sheppard, husband of the victim, who is serving a life prison term for the murder, said however that Kolofolias was not near the scene of the crime until about 20 hours after it was committed.

The attorney, William J. Corrigan, said in Cleveland Kolofolias' identification "means nothing to me."

Erle Stanley Gardner, mystery story writer who has led a group urging full examination of the convict's "confession," said he was "very much interested" in Kolofolias' identification.

Kolofolias, 32, a merchant seaman from Long Beach and Inglewood, Calif., made his identification from two photos of Donald J. Wedler, the DeLand, Fla., convict who has said he thinks he might have been Mrs. Sheppard's murderer.

The photos were rushed to Waterloo for Kolofolias' inspection after he turned up in Waterloo with a story of hitchhiking a ride with a nervous, chain-smoking motorist at Bay Village, Ohio, three years ago.

A few hours earlier, Cleveland authorities who had prosecuted Sheppard for the murder announced that four hours of questioning Wedler in DeLand convinced them his "confession" is phony.

"We take no stock in Wedler's story whatsoever," they said.

Kolofolias at first planned to fly to DeLand tonight to meet Wedler face to face. But he decided to postpone his flight until tomorrow.

The seaman, a pint-sized 5 feet, 3 inches tall, stuck by his identification despite the apparent time discrepancy.

"I told you what I know and what I remember," he said. "You can find flaws and loopholes in every story. You must remember it's been a long time since this happened."

Kolofolias identified Wedler as the motorist with the words "Yes, that is the man."

He did not put himself on record until after he had carefully examined the photos and the place a long distance telephone call to Corrigan. Corrigan promptly pointed out the time difference to the seaman, and Kolofolias answered, "I can't help that, sir."

Kolofolias recalls that he was in Detroit, Mich., on July 4, 1954. That was the day Mrs. Sheppard was bludgeoned to death in her home at Bay Village at about 4 a.m.

Twenty hours later, according to Kolofolias' story, he arrived in Bay Village. And it was not until 2:30 a.m. on July 5 that the mysterious motorist gave him the ride.

Kolofolias also admitted he saw the motorist only by the light of matches and briefly under a streetlight during their 45-minute ride into Cleveland.

"He just about went through a pack of my cigarettes and he kept lighting matches," Kolofolias recalled.

MAD SLAYER OF 2 POLICE SOUGHT

Trucker and 2 Women Slain on Desert Road

HOBBS, N.M., July 23 (AP)—A cold-blooded gunman shot a truck driver and two young women to death before dawn near here today, and it was speculated that it might be the same man who shot down two California policemen yesterday.

Dead were J. D. Cantrell, 27, Carlsbad, N.M., the truck driver; Mrs. Barbara Edward Lemmons and Mrs. Dorothy Fern Gibson, both 23, of Hobbs.

FIX FLAT

Cantrell apparently had stopped to help the two women fix a flat tire along U.S. 180 in a remote area 36 miles west of this southeastern New Mexico oil center. They were shot with a .22 caliber weapon. So were the El Segundo, Calif., policemen.

The women's bodies were discovered on an isolated oil field road off U. S. 180. Cantrell's body was found where the women had parked.

Cantrell's body was discovered at 4:10 a.m. by another truck driver, Floyd Smith, Midland, Tex. Police said Smith's arrival at the scene probably came within minutes after the slaying. The motor of Cantrell's truck was still running and Cantrell's body was warm.

PIECED TOGETHER

Cantrell, driving a gasoline truck for the Ferguson - Steere Trucking Co., was eastbound to Seagraves, Tex., and came upon the two women, who had pulled their car off the highway with a flat tire.

Cantrell parked in front of the car and, leaving the motor of his truck running, had started to change the tire.

A third vehicle stopped at the scene. Tire marks of the third vehicle indicated the driver had pulled off the pavement and then had left hurriedly, leaving burnt rubber from his tires in his haste.

There were signs of a terrific struggle behind the women's car.

Cantrell's body was lying partially on the highway. Officers said there were two bullet holes in his head, two in his chest and one in each of his hands.

A search for Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Lemmons began when their purses and other identification were found in the car. Also, a high school class ring belonging to Mrs. Lemmons was found on the ground near the car.

About six hours later, Bill Wilson, 35, an oil well switcher from Hobbs, discovered the bodies of the two women on the oil field road northwest of Hobbs and 29 miles from where Cantrell's body was found. The bodies were lying in a grassy draw, about eight yards apart.

The officers said that the women's clothing was intact, except that Mrs. Gibson's shoes were missing. There was no indication that they had been molested sexually.

Officers said there was no motive of robbery in the killings. Cantrell had $4 and his billfold when his body was found.

The two policemen were shot at El Segundo after they stopped a motorist for a traffic violation. The car proved to be stolen. One of the officers was shot three times in the back. The other was shot three times as he jumped out of the police car. They were patrolmen Richard Phillips, 29, and Milton Curtis, 25.

Curtis managed to crawl back to their patrol car before dying and gasp out a call for an ambulance over the police radio.

The killer was believed to have been fleeing in the stolen car after having raped a teen-aged California girl.

Russell Checks Marines But Refuses Full Inquiry

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Chairman Russell (D-Ga) said today the Senate Armed Services Committee has been making periodic checks on Marine Corps training methods since the drowning last year of six recruits at the Parris Island, S.C., Marine training base.

At the same time, Russell rejected a suggestion by the American Civil Liberties Union "that Marine Corps training methods are unnecessarily brutal and should be investigated."

Ernest Angell, chairman of the union's board of directors, had supplied congressional committees with detailed protests on Marine Corps training methods and suggested inquiry.

"The statements about mistreatment of Marine recruits that are dealt with in the pamphlet accompanying your letter seem to relate exclusively to incidents occurring before May 1, 1956," Russell wrote Angell in a letter the Senator made public.

Russell said his committee has "had periodic contact with the commandant and other Marine Corps officials since the tragic drownings at Parris Island. These officials reported to us on progress in eliminating the undesirable practices that are subject of your letter."

Russell told the civil liberties union that the Senate committee "will continue its interest in the training methods of the Marine Corps and that your views on this subject will be borne in mind."

Previously leaders of House committees rejected requests for a special inquiry.

Egypt Shows Its Russian Jets, Tanks

CAIRO, July 23 (UP)—Egypt today displayed Soviet-supplied jet fighters and bombers, tanks, rocket launchers and artillery in a three-hour review designed to demonstrate its military comeback after the Suez war.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser and War Minister Lt. Gen. Abdl Hkim Amer stood in the reviewing stand to accept the salutes of an estimated 10,000 troops in the parade and fly-past.

MIG-17 jet fighters and Ilyushin twin-jet bombers shrieked over Abdine Square almost at roof-top level.

Russian-built T34 tanks clanked through the square past the palace of King Farouk — ousted and exiled five years ago this week by a nine-man military junta that included then Lt. Col. Nasser.

Rocket launchers towed by Soviet-made trucks and heavy artillery as well as "Molotov" weapons carriers rolled by.

The rocket launchers generated considerable interest. The newspaper "Al Akhbar" quoted a spokesman of the armed forces as saying Egypt has "the only army in the Mideast equipped with modern rockets and weapons."

'Betrayers' Are Warned By Graham

NEW YORK, July 23 (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham told some 15,000 persons in Madison Square Garden tonight that many of them had betrayed Jesus Christ for "a moment of passion, a moment of lust."

"There are hundreds of you here tonight who have betrayed the Lord Jesus Christ," Graham said. "You have sold out Jesus for 30 pieces of silver, some of you for less than that."

The 38-year-old revivalist said Jesus told his disciples after the Last Supper that those among them who had not prayed with him had betrayed him.

"Anthropologists have found no tribe no matter how remote that has not prayed," Graham said. "Prayer is as old as the human race. If a man has no God he will make one. Even atheists call upon God in a pinch. Prayer is the proof of God."

Graham said a person had to learn to pray "just as you have to learn to ride a bicycle. Prayer is not a monologue, it is a dialogue. It is a talk with God."

Graham, who already has extended his New York crusade beyond its original closing date of July 20, said that if it "goes beyond Aug. 10 they may have to get another preacher."

He said he did not know who had started the "rumor" that the crusade would continue until Labor Day but that he definitely was going on a vacation with his wife Sept. 15.

Tonight's attendance raised the total for the crusade which began May 15 to 1,218,100. There were 369 new "decisions for Christ," making a total of 37,471 during the crusade.

Atom for Peace and War Given Go-Ahead by Panel

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—A House-Senate atomic energy subcommittee approved a bill today to carry forward the nuclear weapons program and step up development of the atom for peaceful uses.

Chairman Chet Holifield (D-Calif) said the measure would authorize $268,092,000 in construction projects for the Atomic Energy Commission's weapons installation and its peacetime reactor developments.

It also contained a go-ahead for $129,915,000 worth of cooperative agreements in which the AEC has joined with industrial groups in reactor projects and similar developments.

PREVIOUSLY BUDGETED

Although some of that figure had been previously budgeted, it was included in the bill under a law which makes such projects subject to congressional authorization for the first time.

The bill would merely authorize the expenditures. A follow-up bill to provide the actual money must be passed later. The authorization bill must be approved by the full Atomic Energy Committee and then will go to the House and Senate.

Holifield said major new provisions of the bill would:

Require the AEC to build a 40 million dollar reactor of the gas-cooled type at Arco, Idaho. That is the type of reactor for which the British claimed great success in their Calder Hall installation.

RECYCLE PLUTONIUM

Direct the commission to go ahead with a 15 million dollar experimental reactor designed to "recycle" plutonium made in power reactors.

Authorize a 3 million dollar design and development study of a plutonium-producing reactor—leaving it up to the AEC to decide whether the reactor would also produce power.

No sites were specified in the bill for the recycling reactor or the plutonium reactor. However both are considered likely prospects for the Hanford, Wash., atomic energy installation.

770,000 More Soviet Specialists

MOSCOW, July 23 (AP)—Pravda said today the Soviet Union will add 770,000 specialists to its working force during 1957.

It reported 71,000 engineers would start work along with 26,000 agronomists and other farm specialists, 21,000 physicians and "thousands of economists, financial experts and teachers." The Communist party newspaper claimed there are now 6,257,000 trained specialists in the Soviet Union, contrasted with 190,000 in 1913.

That Boing You Hear May Be a Meat Hook

By MARJORY RUTHERFORD

ANYBODY MISSING a meat-hook?

Mrs. Fred Bennett of 6346 Vernon's Wood Dr., NE, driving on Peachtree just after leaving the Expressway, suddenly heard an ominous BOIN-N-G at the rear of her auto. She thought at first another car had hit her, but couldn't spot any traffic offenders. When she stopped to check, Mrs. Bennett found a huge butcher's hook impaled on her bumper. Maybe it was dropped by a passing truck; she's still mystified.

"My father was born and reared during slavery times. His father had all the clothes for the slaves made on the plantation. He told his foreman to order two of those very heavy irons used for tailoring, called a 'tailor's goose.' The man, not knowing the plural, wrote thus: 'Send us a tailor's goose, and then send us another one.'"

Take Police Out of Politics, Charlie Brown Says

The Atlanta Police Department should be taken out of politics and from under direct control of the mayor, State Sen. Charlie Brown declared Tuesday.

In a speech to the Druid Hills Civitan Club, Brown charged the Hartsfield administration with using the police department for political purposes "in order to keep a machine entrenched in power."

Brown, who has been mentioned as a possible opponent for Mayor Hartsfield in the Dec. 4 general election, declared he was not speaking as a candidate for any office. "I am speaking as a citizen interested in a return to a sound and honest city administration," he said.

Brown recommended the appointment of a "director of public safety" to take the department out of politics and out of the mayor's direct control.

Other recommendations of the senator included:

1. That the mayor not be a member of the aldermanic police committee or any other aldermanic committee. ("There is no more basis for the mayor serving on aldermanic committees than there is for the governor to serve on legislative committees," he commented.)

2. That in the future, mayors be limited to two four-year terms of office.

3. That pay for policemen be "set at a high enough rate so as to attract high calibre men . . . salaries high enough to make it unnecessary for policemen to seek outside employment to support their families."

The senator said that responsibility for success of the current grand jury investigation into police department corruption "rests solely with Sol. Gen. Paul Webb."

"It is Mr. Webb's sworn duty to lead the investigation," Brown said, "and the people of Fulton County are depending on him to perform that duty with no partiality or favoritism to any officeholder or group of officeholders."

Brown said that while the press has revealed a "shocking and outrageous" picture of crime in Atlanta during recent months, the trend toward corruption in the city dates back for years.

Gilliam Eyes Liquor Shops, Police Wages

A check on Atlanta liquor stores and a drive to raise salaries of city police were initiated Tuesday.

Ald. Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of the aldermanic board's police committee, has ordered a new check of ownership of liquor stores to see that no individual owns more than two stores, the limit under existing ordinances. He also asked that distances of all doubtful stores from churches and schools be checked again to see that they comply with ordinances barring such establishments within 100 yards of churches and 200 yards of schools.

Gilliam asked Police Committee Investigator Lt. I. A. Thomas to make the study and requested Associate City Attorney Henry Bowden to cooperate if necessary.

The alderman also said he is making a study of police pay and will ask an increase within the next month. Gilliam said he plans to hold off any recommendation until a study of the police department by the Institute of Public Administration is completed sometime next month.

A recent survey of police pay in Atlanta indicated city officers are paid lower than those in other cities of comparable size.

State Governments Study the Challenge

A committee of state governors and aides to President Eisenhower is scheduled to meet next month to consider how the states may take over some services now performed by the federal government.

The move grew out of the recent governors' conference at which the President challenged the state executives to stop mouthing about states rights unless they are willing to accept the responsibilities which go with them. Only if they do so, the President said, can pressures for more federal spending be reduced.

Invariably, Mr. Eisenhower said, public pressure forces the federal government to step in where states have evaded their own responsibilities of providing the services the people want. He specifically cited the neglect of urban areas.

Figures released by the U.S. Department of Commerce this week show that Georgians paid more than a billion dollars in federal, state and large city taxes for a multitude of services last year. This included about 800 million in federal taxes and more than 300 million in state taxes. In addition, the state and nine large city governments have obligations in debts and bond issues of about 355 million dollars.

There are encouraging signs, including the above, that the states are willing to take on more obligations. Expenditures of state and local governments have grown much more rapidly than have those of the federal in the last decade. Those who have cried for economy on the national level now eye the states with alarm.

The conference should produce some useful results. But since so much of federal expenditures are devoted to national security, how much can be done to return tax sources to states and local communities is problematical. If the states will accept the challenge, however, some money could be saved. But still to be considered is the varying economic capability of the states themselves.

The big question still will be whether local and state politicians will be willing to levy the unpopular taxes for popular services which they have been so willing to let Washington do in the past.

Atlanta Police Deserve At Least a Living Wage

The recommendation now under consideration to raise pay of Atlanta policemen deserves favorable study by the board of aldermen. Such a proposal is bound to be one of the conclusions of the Institute of Public Administration now studying the organization of the department.

There are, of course, many arguments in favor of raising police pay. Foremost among these is the simple fact of life that inflation and increased costs of living have not been confined to certain groups but to all. It is next to impossible for a family to exist on the present scale of police pay, which has not kept pace with cost of living increases.

On the other hand, we cannot go along with the argument which excuses policemen for breaches of honesty—such as accepting bribes—because of the pay scale. A dishonest policeman would remain dishonest no matter what his pay. These must be weeded out in a continuous process.

But Atlanta—and this city certainly is not alone—should pay its policemen enough so that capable and decent men can make a living enforcing the law. That is the best way to insure intelligent and efficient law enforcement in any community.

Population Loss Means School Consolidation

School enrollment in the state is a study in contrasts.

Some school districts are plagued by the problem of density of school-age population. Others are suffering from a dearth.

Counties and districts which have gained in school population get more state aid for teachers under a teacher allotment formula. The districts where folks have moved away, taking their children with them, are the losers when it comes to state aid for teachers.

The city school administrators, trying to find classroom space and teaching staff, would be happier perhaps if the children had stayed on the farm.

Migration from rural counties to urban counties or from the farm to town in counties predominantly rural has not only educators, but also sociologists and politicians scratching their heads. They know why the move, they are not yet clear as to the consequences.

In regard to schools, one consequence seems obvious.

For economy, efficiency and the maximum in education, school districts will have to be consolidated, in many cases across county lines.

No two schools in adjoining counties should be starved for teachers and equipment just because an artificial, man-made barrier is interposed between them.

Guard Doesn't Belong To Georgia Politicians

The feud within the National Guard which Gov. Griffin precipitated in firing three of the state's top defense department officials has reached the ridiculous stage with the governor's assertion that he'd like "to borrow the army back" if Lt. Gov. Vandiver is through with it.

Granted that the governor is commander in chief of the Guard, it is a volunteer outfit and was never intended to become the exclusive property of any politician. If its members, representing a cross-section of Georgia's population, are to be prevented from exercising freedom of choice, the Guard soon will be in a bad way.

It is too bad that this very fine element of the nation's internal defense forces must be dragged into the political mire. It is inevitable that its morale as well as its usefulness will be impaired. If it is to be made the political vehicle of any one group, it will cease to be representative of the people themselves.

The feud is deplorable and should be ended. The National Guard does not belong to the governor nor anyone else. It is made up of Georgians and is intended to serve all the state—not just the politicians.

Jury System Integrity Is Upheld at Knoxville

The conviction of seven of 11 persons accused of criminal contempt for violating a federal injunction against violence in the Clinton, Tenn., school desegregation case will reflect favorably upon the responsibility of Southern courts.

It certainly should take some wind out of those in Congress who have been trying to defeat an amendment to the civil rights bill which would guarantee the right of trial by jury in such cases. The Knoxville jury which heard this case was a Southern all-white jury and the convictions and four acquittals were based on the evidence presented.

Those convicted, including the now-discredited professional rabble rouser, John Kasper, have appealed the verdicts. Whether or not they get new trials, the one just concluded does show that Southern courts will uphold law and order as opposed to violence. The Clinton jury refused to heed rabble-rousing, irrelevant speeches and stuck to the law.

Denial of trial by jury, even though not customary in many courts in contempt cases, can be interpreted as abridgement of a fundamental individual right. The Knoxville court has proved once again the wisdom of the jury system.

Let Facts Be Revealed About Liquor Licenses

A public list of every person—including behind-the-scene operators—who owns an interest of any kind in liquor stores in Atlanta has been ordered prepared by Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, police committee chairman.

This is a good move.

It is another step in the reform of methods and procedures.

For a long time there has been gossip that favoritism has been shown in awarding licenses. There also are persistent reports of multiple-ownership and interests. Regulations forbid this.

If charges of multiple interests be true, the sooner they are revealed the better. Mr. Gilliam's order is to let the chips fall where they may. That, too, is right.

Proper, too, is the order to check distances. The law specifies a certain space between liquor stores, schools and churches. This, however, is no problem. Those which are too close should be closed.

We wish to commend the order and the good results which should flow from it.

Arkansas Gazette

Some 40 days after the fact, the Muscovite newspaper Soviet Russia disclosed that there had been a bank robbery in downtown Moscow. And the Associated Press, which relayed these exciting tidings to the United States, filled in these additional details:

"The paper, which like all Russian papers reports crime news only rarely, said the search for the bandit turned up three criminals, all of whom confessed. The paper indicated one of the three really was the robber."

Under the Soviet system of justice it is not surprising that two innocents rushed forward to confess along with the guilty party. But what in the name of Karl Marx is Moscow doing with a capitalistic, plutocratic institution like a bank?

Don't Waste Away Sun-Drenched Days

Dr. Allen's column is being written this week by Dr. John R. Brokhoff, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Charlotte, N.C.

When a man dies we usually ask the cause of his death. Was it an accident? Was there a lingering illness? Why men die today has changed from a generation ago. Some of the most dreaded diseases are now harmless, thanks to miracle drugs.

Today man's worst killers are cancer and heart trouble. In due time medical science will control these problems.

Though medical science progresses and fatal illnesses may be conquered, men always will die. It was appointed for man to die. It is conceivable that the day will come when all diseases will be under control. Then man probably will die of old age.

Every man may die of something, but not every man dies for something. There is a world of difference between the two.

To die of something is human and natural. To die for something is divine. There is no virtue in dying of something. This may mean merely quantity of life—extension of life to the maximum.

The oldest man in the Bible was Methuselah who lived 969 years. What did he do with his many years? The Record curtly gives as his obituary, "And he died." Someone described Methuselah's life as one with no hits, no runs and no errors. All we can say about his life was that it had quantity.

It is not a matter of dying of something but for something. The supreme example of this was Jesus. He died for the cause of God, to give His life as a ransom for man. He died for man's sins. In a sense He was a victim of man's hatred and jealousy, but He deliberately faced the cross because He knew it was for man's good. That is why Christians call the day of His death, "Good" Friday.

St. Paul was begged by his friends not to go to Jerusalem for they feared for his life. He died for Christ. Once he wrote, "For me to live is Christ and to die is gain."

John Huss, an early reformer, died at the stake in Constance because he held to the truth of God's Word.

William Tyndale was burned to death with his own translation of the Bible hanging around his neck. He died for the cause of putting the Bible into the language of the people.

A man need not die as a martyr to die for something. He can do it over a period of years by giving himself totally to His cause. Peter Marshall burned himself out by preaching the Gospel. A consecrated doctor may die for his people by working night and day.

Which shall it be for you? Will you die of something or for something? To die for something tomorrow means to live for something today.

Griffin Citizen Says the Principle Underlying U.S. Post Office Is One of Service to People

Griffin—This is in reply to Mr. McCullough and his letter about the seven-cent letter and the U.S. Post Office deficit:

The postal service is not a profit-making organization. The value of its great services rendered untold millions, the rich and poor, the young and old, outweighs by far any profit or loss incurred, not to mention the thousands of jobs and salaries of hardworking and faithful postal employes.

There are numerous nonprofit departments in our great government, such as our Defense Department. Highways, schools, hospitals, welfare and health benefits are not paid for in full by the sole beneficiaries of each department.

Would you ask the blind, the aged, the crippled, the orphans and the invalids to pay in full for all services rendered by the government?

Taxes are the only way of paying for our great public services and government.

Beverage Spokesman Disputes News Story

New York, N.Y.—The June 7 issue of The Constitution, which carries a story on Page 14 headlined, "Drunken Driving Causes More Wrecks Than Speed," gives a completely erroneous picture of the relationship between drinking and highway accidents in Georgia.

In the first place, it is difficult to understand use of the headline and lead paragraph, which can only give the impression that drunken driving topped all other causes of highway collisions in the first three months of 1957. The true picture does not emerge until the third paragraph in your story, which lists the three leading causes of the 7,866 wrecks investigated as: "vehicle not under control" (1,701 wrecks); "drivers who did not have the right of way" (1,200 wrecks), and "following too closely" (1,030 wrecks).

"Driving under the influence" was fourth on the list and was cited as a cause in 735 accidents, or only 9.6 per cent of the total. I think you'll agree that this is hardly a weighty enough factor to warrant the sensational treatment it received in the story's head and lead.

But even the 735 figure as applied to "drivers under the influence" is an overstatement. For Georgia does not differentiate, as some states do, between the categories "under the influence," which implies impairment of driving ability, and "had been drinking," which is much less meaningful and could cover drinking in quantities so small as to preclude the possibility of impairment. Thus the 755 Georgia highway crashes attributed to "driving under the influence" include those involving drivers who would normally and more properly be listed as "had been drinking."

Nine states — Virginia, Texas, Missouri, Michigan, California, Iowa, New Mexico, Florida and Colorado — now employ investigative and reporting procedures which permit compilation of data showing the number of drivers in accidents who suffered impairment as a result of drinking. Their findings indicate that from one-third to one-half of drivers who had been categorized loosely as "under the influence" showed no driving impairment at all. If this yardstick is applied to Georgia, it will significantly reduce the reported role played by alcoholic beverages in highway accidents.

This organization, which represents the liquor industry in public relations on a nationwide basis, certainly does not condone drunken driving no matter how limited the scale. But we believe that overemphasis of the problem, as exemplified in the way The Atlanta Constitution handled the story, obscures the more important causes of highway accidents and imposes needless delays in the formulation and execution of a truly effective program to reduce the highway toll.

She Hopes Southland Sticks by Segregation

Decatur—Thomas L. Stokes' obvious determination to disparage the South suggests that he belongs to that very small segment of Southerners who, deep in the subconscious, harbor resentment against their own race.

The portion of the race, that is, with whom this segment grew up in the South.

Incidentally, a New York businessman who travels extensively over the country told an Atlanta man recently Southerners would be amazed at the great number of people in other sections who are hoping the South stands by its guns on the segregation issue.

They know at firsthand what integration is and they don't like it.

The $3 Million License Tag

The state of Texas has under study an auto license revision to make the fee so high on cars of 250-plus horsepower that ownership would be discouraged. Discouraged? In Texas? What would it take, a three-million-dollar tag? Speaking of Texas, which I do occasionally, I had the pleasure before vacation of judging a phase of the Lone Star State Press Assn. column writing contest. Besides thanks, Vern Sanford, the TPA manager, sent me a resplendent red "Newspaper Necktie" bearing the facsimile of a couple of front pages, scissors, a typewriter and the typographical legend ETAOINSHRDLU.

That is what happens when a Linotype operator knows he makes an error early in forming a slug. He runs out the keyboard to release the slug and gets "ETAOINSHRDLU." Sometimes it gets in the paper thataway.

Anyhow, the results in the Texas contest have been announced. I can glean from the entries before I throw them away.

When the election returns were opened in Bonham, Tex., Bob Cantrell reports, a box of aspirin fell out of one ballot box and a package of bobby pins from another.

In Taylor, Tex., a school traffic sign urges: "Use Your Eyes—It Saves the Pupils."—Lin Mills, columnist.

In Nacogdoches, Vic Fain wants to know, "Did you hear about the bright lad whose agricultural college classmates voted him 'the boy most likely to sack seed'?"

Note to Atlanta's Sam Dull: Alice, Tex., has its Sam Lull.

Ed Leach, who writes "Short Views of Longview," quotes a townsman who "ran into a guy that had just had a fifth of truth serum and denied if he didn't tell me a big lie."

Ed wrote a paragraph which he admitted later got him in a peck of trouble. It said:

"One of our office gals who has been having a little eye trouble and temporarily can't hear too good, either, lost her voice Friday. She whispered to one of the other girls: 'When you get past 40, you're just a maintenance problem.'"

Conservatives Fear Rights Bill Victory

WASHINGTON—Influences are at work to make a fraud of the civil rights bill before it gets out of the Senate. Some of the most powerful of such influences are far beyond the South. They are conservative interests which are concerned in having a controlled and manageable vote in the South as a means of keeping its representatives in Congress conservative. That assures a preponderantly conservative Congress because of the strong voice that Southerners have in that body.

Southern senators are fully aware of the stakes—both political and economic—in watering down voting right protections, the heart of the bill. They are gratified at the way economic interests beyond the South are rallying to their side. This is discernible to the experienced eye.

The full extent of the fraud being plotted can be best recognized by those thoroughly familiar with the politics and economics of the South, its history and its traditions. One important bit of history is how the franchise, which was extended to Negroes soon after the War Between the States was narrowed to exclude both Negroes and poor whites in the 1890s. That was because of the way in which populism swept into the South from the West at that time to create for a brief period a virtual revolution of the dispossessed. At that time, as now, absentee landlords in the North who had big interests in the South, as they still do, were part of the conspiracy to maintain a regulated and predictable vote.

The present hue and cry about "trial by jury" in contempt cases growing out of attempts to prevent voting — a seductive plea even if trial by jury does not exist today in the South in contempt cases in state courts—advertises another in the lone line of devices to keep down the vote. They are familiar to anyone who grew up and has a background of many generations in the South. There was the "white primary" that started in a couple of counties in Sen. Dick Russell's state of Georgia and spread all over the South. There was the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting. There was the "grandfather" clause which forbade anyone to vote whose grandfather had been a slave. There were the so-called "educational" qualifications, again being used today, by which Negroes were barred from voting for inability to answer questions that would stump some of our $64,000 question prize winners.

Slowly those barriers were knocked down. The "grandfather" clause was abandoned. The Supreme Court banned the "white primary." Southern states themselves began to repeal poll tax laws so that the poll tax exists as a requirement for voting in only five Southern states today.

Then came the Supreme Court school integration decision which provoked resentments in the South. Once again various pressures began to be used to restrict Negro voting. It is largely these new restrictions that are responsible for the Eisenhower administration's concentration on protection of voting rights in its civil rights bill, a simple and basic right but one that has potency. Southern members of Congress know that extension of the vote widely to Negroes would force a change in present attitudes, not only on civil rights but also on economic and social welfare issues to liberalize present Southern conservative positions.

In short, the new pressures would be against extreme conservatism among Southern members of Congress. That is what concerns conservatives outside the South, as well as in the South. They want to see conservatism predominant in Southern members of Congress.

Sen. Russell Argues Liberals Exaggerate

WASHINGTON—Northern liberals in Congress have had much to say lately about there being a need for passage of a strong civil rights bill because, as they put it, "America is on trial before the world." Other peoples of the globe cannot believe the United States lives up to its professed principles of freedom and equality, they have argued, so long as Negroes in the South are denied the right to vote.

Up to now Southern senators have ignored this line of talk in their own preoccupation with their attacks on Section III of the bill and the jury trial issue. Furthermore, there is some vulnerability in the South's position so long as Negroes qualified to vote are denied that privilege anywhere in Dixie.

The voter registration figures for Mississippi, for instance, are hard for Southerners to defend, with only 18,000 estimated Negro voters there out of a potential of nearly 500,000. Alabama's record is not too good in this respect, either.

But Sen. Russell and other Southerners have argued that the situation is improving rapidly throughout most of the South. They cite figures showing that Negroes, granted the franchise in Democratic primaries a relatively few years ago, are going to the polls in Dixie in steadily increasing numbers.

Russell is ready, the next time this line of argument comes up, to reply to Northerners who blame the South for giving the nation a black eye in the court of world opinion.

The senator believes that the civil rights extremists—for the sake of Negro votes in the big cities of the North—are deliberately magnifying and exaggerating to the world racial differences in the South.

The Georgia senator does not claim that race relations in the South are perfect. And he concedes that in some rural areas of Dixie Negroes are discouraged from voting. He does not condone or defend that. But Russell argues the practice is not nearly so widespread as Northern liberals would have the rest of the nation and the world believe.

What Russell, Sen. Talmadge and other Southerners resent is what they believe to be hypocrisy on the part of "self-righteous, self-styled liberals" in giving the South and the nation a bad name simply for the sake of minority votes in the North.

Southerners Are Grateful To 'Fighting' Dick Russell

The people of our Southland owe Sen. Dick Russell a tremendous debt of gratitude. Regardless of the outcome of the present fight in our national Congress over the civil rights bill, we can know that there is no man in Congress who could have represented us so ably.

And at this writing Dick Russell has managed to gain ground in the battle and is building hopes that there may be some modification in the bill which will nullify some of the vicious provisions set out in the administration's bill.

It took a man of his stature and ability and experience to show President Eisenhower the true nature of the bill and the effect it would have on the South if it should happen to be written into law.

And it's gratifying to know that Sen. Russell has had able help from our junior senator, Herman Talmadge.

| 2 diamonds | 3 clubs | Pass | 3 hearts |
| Pass | 3 spades | Pass | 3 no trump |
| Pass | 4 hearts | Pass | Pass |
| Pass | | | |

Opening lead: Seven of diamonds.

Today's hand was selected from our old archives and features one of the finest defensive swindles we have ever run across. Declarer started out with the potential for taking all 13 tricks, assuming he correctly guessed the spade holding. East's resourcefulness reduced this total to eight.

The North-South pair reached a game contract in hearts though it seems that more aggressive treatment might have been accorded the holding. It will be noted that a slam in hearts is a distinct favorite, depending for fulfilment primarily on a normal 3-2 trump break.

West opened the seven of diamonds and South ruffed away East's ace. Since he had not contracted for slam, South decided to play the hand safely for 10 tricks.

His plan was to cash both the ace of spades and the ace of clubs and then make all his trumps separately by ruffing three clubs in the dummy. There was no danger of an overruff, inasmuch as all of declarer's trumps were high.

Accordingly, he cashed the ace of spades and East, who had been doing some thinking during declarer's opening monolog and had reached the conclusion that there was no ligitimate way to beat the hand, placidly dropped the king.

This "stroke of fortune" induced declarer to alter his plan of campaign. He saw now that 12 tricks were apparently available to him: Five hearts in his own hand, five spades, the ace of clubs and a club ruff in dummy. He therefore cashed the ace of clubs and ruffed a low club with the ace of trumps. He then drew the remaining trumps, discarding two low diamonds from dummy, and confidently finessed the nine of spades. When East took in the trick with his ten, declarer was out of trumps, and darkness descended.

State's Farmers Can Save Taxes On Gas Refunds

Georgia farmers stand to save tax dollars by filing for refunds on gasoline used for farming purposes, the Internal Revenue Service said Tuesday.

W. J. Bookholt, district director here, said the service has a booklet available to show them how.

Bookholt said farmers may obtain the booklet, Revised Farmer's Gas Tax Refund Guide, by writing for publication No. 308. He said letters should be addressed to District Internal Revenue Office, Peachtree-Baker Building, Atlanta.

Road Bond Interest Is Highest Yet

The Georgia Rural Roads Authority had to pay the highest rate of interest in its three-year history on a $17.5 million bond issue sold Tuesday.

Low bid, submitted jointly by Robinson-Humphrey Co. of Atlanta and Blythe & Co. of New York, was at a rate of 4.08484 per cent.

The new figure compares with approximately 2.76 per cent paid on the first issue in 1955.

Gov. Griffin said, however, that the current rate is about as good as could be expected with the government's tight money policy.

The latest issue is the fourth let by the authority and brings the total outlay to $65 million. The authority will let two more issues for a total of $100 million in rural road work before the end of Griffin's administration.

Clinton Jury Convicts 7, Frees 4 in U.S. Court

menting racial strife at Clinton last fall when 12 Negroes were admitted to the previously all-white high school there, were:

Lawrence J. Brantley, 50, Clinton car dealer.

William J. Brakebill, 41, Clinton service station operator.

Alonzo Bullock, 52, part-time preacher and Clinton carpenter.

Clyde Cook, 26, Oak Ridge, Tenn., fireman.

Mrs. Mary Nell Currier, 39, Clinton housewife and mother of two children.

Willard H. Till, 43, Oak Ridge machinist.

The judge told defense laywers he would give them 20 days to file their motion for a new trial if it is within his discretion to extend the time for filing appeals. He said he had been advised by the court clerk that five days is the maximum.

Specifically, Kasper and the others were charged with criminal contempt of court. The government accused them of knowingly violating a court order forbidding interference with orderly integration of Clinton High.

The four defendants acquitted were:

Clifford Carter, 38, jobless truck driver; Edward Henson Nelson, 22, grocery clerk; Virgil Cleo Nelson, 23, carpenter; and Raymond Wood, 35, Clinton house painter.

Knoxville is the hub of heavily Republican east Tennessee, which in many ways resembles the industrial North more than the Deep South.

18 AT FIRST

Originally, 18 Clinton residents and Kasper were charged with conspiring to violate U. S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor's injunction barring interference with the court-ordered racial integration of Clinton High. Clinton is 20 miles northwest of Knoxville.

One of the original defendants died in a mental hospital and another, a 17-year-old youth, was sent to the state reformatory for car theft.

Charges against the four of the "Clinton 15" who actually went on trial were dropped by the government for lack of enough evidence to warrant conviction. A fifth defendant, Mrs. Zella Nelson, 19, was excused because she expects a child in September.

TO ENFORCE ORDER

Taylor had issued the injunction to enforce his own order to the Clinton school to integrate in compliance with the U. S. Supreme Court decision against public school segregation. The injunction forbade any hindrance "by word or deed" with the integration.

Previously, the school had been restricted to whites under a state law dating back to 1871 forbidding whites and Negroes to attend the same classes.

However, the state law was superseded by the Supreme Court's historic ruling on May 17, 1954, that segregation violates the U. S. Constitution.

1:55 p.m. They said they found where the charge ripped a hole in a rear bedroom wall.

Evidently Engesser and his wife then went to the living room and sat and talked, they revealed. They said they found no evidence of a struggle.

Mrs. Engesser evidently picked up her purse and started for the door when she was felled by a shotgun blast in the back, officers said. They said Engesser was shot in the chest and that a .20-gauge pump shotgun was found between the bodies.

Detectives said they found no immediate explanation for the deaths, labeled murder-suicide.

DeKalb County Coroner E. C. Harvey came to the scene and aided in the investigation.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Threat to South, Griffin Asserts

Gov. Griffin Tuesday saw the conviction of John Kasper and six others in the Clinton, Tenn., segregation trials as a distinct threat to the South.

"This," he said, "is just a forerunner of what we can expect in Georgia and everywhere else if our folks who are fighting our battles in Washington are not successful." By the "battles in Washington," he meant the Congressional struggle over civil rights legislation.

that in the last few years many such things were charged, and paid for with the dues of union members, with you as a trustee to protect those members?"

"We have not run up on those things . . . we didn't catch 'em," said Emerson, a gangling, heavy-bearded man who makes a living as an electrician and admitted no training in accounting.

Joseph Jacobs, of Atlanta, the union's lawyer and Southern director, gave the committee what one member called a "pretty flimsy" explanation of a report he helped to draft on the union's finances in 1952 after George Meany, then secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, charged that the union officers had tried to deceive him.

Jacobs had been a member of a committee set up by the union to review Meany's charges. The committee's report cleared the officers, Klenert and President Anthony Valente, although neglecting to state in it that $57,000 in union money had been "set aside" in the form of two houses purchased by these officers for their personal use.

Jacobs accused Meany of "personal venom" against the Textile Union officers and said the specific information about the houses was withheld from the committee report in order not to give "any more ammunition" to a rival textile union in the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Jury Trials Vindicated, Russell Says

with the one in the recent federal court trial in Washington of Teamsters' Union official James R. Hoffa, he "wouldn't think this would illustrate that we should abolish trial by jury."

Hoffa, Midwest boss of the Teamsters, was acquitted Friday of trying to bribe a New York lawyer to spy on the Senate Rackets Committee.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) added "Some people may think that the Hoffa trial may have been a miscarriage of justice but I don't hear any of them saying, 'Let's do away with jury trials.'"

The Iowan continued, "No longer can it be said that a jury in the South won't convict (in a rights case)."

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas also referred to the acquittal of Hoffa, and said:

"It still behooves the attorney general when he cannot get a conviction in Washington, D.C., to talk about the failure of Southern judges to do their duty."

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) told the Senate the Clinton verdict "delighted" him and confirmed his faith in Southern jurors.

He said many members of the jury stated when they were chosen they did not believe in integration. But he said they all favored law and order, and recognized the Supreme Court school integration decision as the law of the land.

Summing up, Sen. Russell said the verdict will increase support for a jury trial amendments to the civil rights bill "although I don't suppose it will influence people who have already indicted, convicted and condemned the South without trial."

weekly news conference tomorrow.

Advocates of a tough civil rights bill have complained that the President up to now has pulled the rug out from under them by failing to take a consistently strong position on the bill.

Eisenhower is certain to be asked by newsmen Wednesday if he would favor or accept the Anderson-Aiken-Case proposal to confine the bill to voting rights.

Forty Democrats and 21 Republicans voted against the Bricker amendment while seven Democrats and 22 Republicans supported it.

Some strong advocates of civil rights legislation, including Democratic Sens. Humphrey (Minn.), Clark (Pa.) and Morse (Ore), voted with the Southerners against the Bricker plan.

But they are almost certain to vote against the Southerners and against the Anderson-Aiken-Case amendment.

Almost all of the liberal civil rights extremists voted against the Cooper amendment, too, as the Kentucky Republican got only five members of his own party and two Democrats — Sens. Kefauver of Tennessee and party whip Mike Mansfield of Montana to go along with his plan.

In a NBC radio-television debate Tuesday night, Sen. Russell cited the election of a Negro member to the Atlanta Board of Education as a refutation of charges that Negroes are unable to vote in Georgia. "Voting is the least of our social worries in Georgia," he added.

In the program carried on WSB-TV and radio Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) pointed out that in at least two Georgia counties with populations of thousands of Negroes of voting age there are none on the voting lists.

"While Negroes can vote in Atlanta, that great city is grossly under-represented in the (state) Legislature," Douglas continued. He pointed out that two or three Georgia counties with only a fraction of Atlanta's population have a greater voice in state government than the capital city.

State Financial Squeeze May Be Hot Issue in '58

By WILLIAM M. BATES
Constitution Political Editor

The candidates for governor in next year's primary probably will find it hard to avoid some straight talking to the voters on the matter of state finances.

It could be painful talk, both to the voters and the candidates.

William M. Bates

As things stand now, the developing budget squeeze on Capitol Hill will be coming to a head during the fiscal year that starts next July 1. That's about the time the gubernatorial campaign will get down to the brass-knucks stage for the September voting.

Though the timing is coincidental, it is likely to put the voters in an inquisitive frame of mind about the fiscal views, plans and promises of the gubernatorial contenders.

It would not be surprising if the voters, by now, are becoming a little cynical about the tax increases following hard upon gubernatorial elections in Georgia. It's happened the past three times.

SITUATION SHAPING

Yet the same general situation that brought about those past three tax increases is taking shape now. That situation is simply that state spending continues to rise while state revenue is tending to level off.

When outgo overtakes income, one of two things must happen: outgo must be cut or income must increase. Deficit spending is not permitted under Georgia law.

Gov. Griffin probably won't get caught a second time by the squeeze before he leaves office in January, 1959. But it looks like it's going to be close.

NO MORE MONEY

Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams says he does not think tax collections this fiscal year will top last year's $315.5 million. But state spending already authorized amounts to $313 million. Another $5 million likely will be made available to the Highway Department before the fiscal year ends next June 30.

There are always many extra demands made for this or that costly project. Gov. Griffin, for example, appears likely to put up a good-sized chunk of cash for the purchase of Stone Mountain to complete the development of the Confederate Memorial.

GRIFFIN HAS SURPLUS

Griffin, however, has the protection of a $35 million surplus in the state treasury.

But his successor almost certainly will have to face up to the financial problem. Already in sight is an automatic increase in the cost of the public school program for the year starting next July 1 of $8,000,000. That automatically increasing need seems likely to go on indefinitely . . . or as long as the state's population increases.

Promises to cut government spending through economy measures, regardless of how sincere and worthwhile, will not solve the state's fiscal predicament.

The final answer must be either to curtail government services, and this certainly includes education, which gets the lion's share of the tax dollars, or increase income from taxes.

Which will it be?

The voters have a right to know how each candidate will answer this question specifically and in detail.

This should give them something to talk about between now and September, 1959, in addition to segregation and the county unit system.

Fulton Backs State Buying of Stone Mountain

"Wholehearted approval" of the proposal for the state to purchase Stone Mountain and complete the Confederate carvings there was voiced Tuesday by Fulton County's commissioners.

The Fulton commissioners' approval of the plan followed similar actions by the DeKalb County commissioners and the Atlanta Board of Aldermen.

The board passed a resolution introduced by Commissioner Carlyle Fraser which said that the commissioners gave an "emphatic yes" to Gov. Griffin's question to the public on whether citizens favor the state purchasing the mountain property to complete the memorial.

It also pointed up the value of the memorial in attracting tourists to Georgia.

Roads Gets $3 Million In Surpluses

The State Highway Dept. has received $3 million in surplus funds since July 1 for 100 per cent state construction jobs, Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr., said Tuesday.

Gov. Griffin said the money is part of the $8 million he expects to make available to the highway department this year over and above its regular $67 million appropriation.

The governor said that not all of the $3 million will be used directly for road work. He said it would be used for county contracts, financing convict maintenance camps, state asphalt plants and other activities requiring 100 per cent state funds.

Highway Board Chairman Roy Chalker said he could not say exactly how much of the money would go for county roads. He said a lot of it would go to replenish other department budgets that had been "raided" to pay for increased maintenance work.

U.S. Jury Acquits Mother In Smyrna Embezzlement

A pretty, auburn-haired mother of two children Tuesday was acquitted of federal charges that she embezzled almost $300 from a Smyrna bank where she had been employed.

An all-male federal jury deliberated for about an hour before returning a not guilty verdict in favor of Mrs. Karol Jean Bennett, 28, of Detroit.

The government charged Mrs. Bennett fraudulently credited four checks—two for $98 and two for $49—to her account at the Bank of Smyrna where she worked as a bookkeeper in 1953 and 1954.

W. Stell Huie, her court-appointed attorney, argued that the government did not present sufficient evidence to back up its claims.

Mrs. Bennett was cleared of charges in all eight counts of the grand jury indictment against her.

$387,906 Back Wages Paid in State

Back wages totaling $387,906 were paid to 5,686 Georgia workers to correct wage-hour law underpayments during the fiscal year ended June 30, the Labor Department said Tuesday.

Sterling B. Williams, regional director of the U.S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, said the extra pay checks came from 452 firms or employers.

Georgia ranked second in a five-state southeastern area in amount of back wages paid, he said. Florida was first with $629,527 to 4,591 employes.

The total for the five-state region was $1,687,265 paid by 1,865 employers.

A substantial portion of the money found due was caused by minimum wage violations," Williams said, "with the amounts computed being increased somewhat because of the rise in the minimum from 75 cents to $1 an hour in March 1956."

2 Miners Killed As 20,000 Tons Of Coal Falls

PIKEVILLE, Ky., July 23 (UP)—A coal mine tipple collapsed near here today and buried four miners under some 20,000 tons of coal, killing two brothers and injuring two other men.

Officials of the state Department of Mines and Minerals reported that the men had gathered under the tipple to keep out of the rain when the structure gave way apparently under the weight.

Rescue workers dug into the coal and recovered the bodies of two brothers—Jesse Mullins, 19, and Bobby Mullins, 18, both of Belcher, Ky.

Injured were the owner of the mine, Hubert Belcher and Charles Lamb.

A tipple is a structure into which mine cars dump coal for processing and loading onto railroad cars and trucks.

H-Tests Speed Britain To Atom Self-Sufficiency

Defense Minister Tells Commons Of Progress in Work on Bombs

By DREW MIDDLETON
(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)

LONDON, July 23—Britain is rapidly approaching self-sufficiency in nuclear weapons, Duncan Sandys told the House of Commons tonight.

The minister of defense reported that Britain already was able to manufacture bombs with the explosive force of millions of tons of TNT as well as warheads for ballistic rockets as a result of the "brilliance" of her scientists after one series of hydrogen bomb tests this year.

After a "comparatively few" more tests Britain will be able to reduce appreciably the amount of fissile materials required for such weapons and will complete "correspondingly sooner" the minimum stockpile of weapons considered necessary, Sandys said.

This enthusiastic description of the development of the nation's nuclear weapons power and an implied desire to carry on further hydrogen bomb tests was an unusual climax to the day's debate on disarmament.

The British government's policy in the five-power disarmament talks now going on in London was endorsed by the Commons by a vote of 322 to 262. This gave to Conservatives their normal majority of 60.

Aneurin Bevan assailed the government's position in a speech dripping with scorn and vituperation. He denounced the British position, which in this case is also the U.S. position, for linking a suspension of nuclear weapons tests to a ban on the production of fissile material for nuclear weapons.

Moreover, he charged that the Western demand that the reunification of Germany be linked to a reduction in force to the levels of military forces of the great powers had deadlocked the discussions of the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee.

4 MONTHS OF TALK

These talks, by representatives of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union, have been going on in London for more than four months. There have been signs in the last two weeks that they are nearing a stalemate.

Bevan said that once the Germans were armed, strong and powerful, they would put reunification on an international agenda and "we shall find ourselves with problems more stubborn than they are today."

He asked that instead of this, Britain and other Western powers start discussions with the Soviet Union on a European security system and find out what the Soviet government means by some of its proposals.

(The Soviet Union has proposed that both NATO and the Warsaw Pact be scrapped and an all-European security system be established to support them.)

AWKWARD QUESTIONS

Sandys answered Bevan with assurance that the British government believed it would achieve an initial measure of disarmament without having to settle "awkward questions," such as the unification of Germany.

The minister of defense said acceptance of the Soviet proposal to suspend nuclear tests for two years without a simultaneous agreement to halt the manufacture of fissionable material for nuclear weapons would not prevent other nations not now producing such weapons from manufacturing them. At present only the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union are making nuclear weapons.

"If you really wish to stop fourth powers from entering the nuclear field, you must do much more than suspend tests," Sandys asserted.

U.S. Raiders Hit Anew at Dope Ship

PORT EVERGLADES, Fla., July 23 (UP) — About 35 U.S. customs agents swooped down on a French freighter again today in a search for narcotics believed to have been smuggled into this country by an international dope ring.

Agents yesterday seized nearly a million dollars' worth of heroin aboard the ship.

SEEK MORE DOPE

Customs officials said they believed there were more narcotics aboard and said they believed the cache was aimed for "addict markets in New York and Chicago.

"We believe that there might be more than just the heroin seized yesterday," said A.T. Brantly, port collector. "We want to make sure."

He said the search of the vessel "from stem to stern" was expected to last until sometime Wednesday morning.

4 ARRAIGNED

As the agents began picking over the large cruiseship, Marseille, four men arrested here with 9½ pounds of pure heroin were arraigned before a U.S. commissioner.

Customs reported that the ship had been watched closely for six months as she plied the coasts of the southeastern United States, Cuba, Italy, France and Spain. The ship's home port is Marseille, France, a hotbed of international smuggling.

Charles E. Wyatt, supervising customs agent, said that if the drugs had ever gotten into the hands of "pushers" they would have brought about a million dollars from addicts.

No Hope for Peace, Algeria Rebels Insist

By KATHLEEN TELTSCH
(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., July 23—Algerian Nationalist leaders denied today that they had held secret talks with a high French official on the possibility of halting the Algerian revolt.

They also informed the United Nations "with regret" that they saw no immediate prospect of negotiating with France on an Algerian settlement or even any prospect of establishing French-Algerian contacts.

The denial was made in a letter to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold from Mohammed Yazid of the National Council of the Algerian Revolution. In it Yazid said that neither he nor other Alegerian spokesmen had any discussion or meeting in Tunis earlier this month with a representative of Premier Bourges-Maunoury and Foreign Minister Pineau of France.

The letter said, "Both the Prime Minister and the minister of foreign affairs of France have made statements implying that such contacts had been established."

The letter charged that the reports of the secret talks had been circulated in Paris to offset an Asian-Arab move at the United Nations to demand that the General Assembly give full airing to the Algerian problem.

In the letter, the Nationalists again blamed the impasse on France and insisted that France still sought a solution by force.

"At the present moment, we do not see any prospect of negotiations or even of Franco-Algerian contacts to arrive at a peaceful settlement of the Algerian problem," the letter said.

Margaret's Lord Patrick To Quit Army

LONDON, Wednesday, July 24 (UP)—Princess Margaret's current boy friend, Lord Patrick Beresford, was quoted today as saying he intends to resign his army commission shortly.

The 23-year-old polo playing nobleman is a lieutenant in the elite Royal Horse Guards regiment. The War Office announced only Monday he was being sent to Cyprus on a military assignment.

The Daily Mail quoted Beresford as saying: "I intened to resign before the end of the year, so it is nonsense to say I will be going out to Cyprus."

There were rumors last week that engagement of Beresford and the 26-year-old princess was impending. Court circles were silent on the rumors.

The Daily Mail said Beresford's decision "means there will be no break in his friendship with Princess Margaret.

The War Office described Beresford's transfer to Cyprus as routine. But some newspapers hinted it was arranged to save Buckingham Palace embarassment over the romance rumors.

FBI Charges Atlantan in Theft Of Badge, Pistol

An Atlanta Negro was arrested Tuesday on charges of pilfering the badge, revolver and handcuffs of a retired federal agent, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said.

J. K. Mumford, special agent in charge of the Atlanta FBI office, said Jerry Hawkins, 26, of 313 Hilliard St., NE, was booked on charges of theft of government property.

Hawkins, a former janitor at the Peachtree-Baker Building, apparently took the items, owned by a retired agent of the Federal Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit, while cleaning up the building, Mumford said.

5 Schools Integrate in N. Carolina

3 Cities Admit 12 Negro Pupils

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 23 (AP)—Three North Carolina cities—Charlotte, Winston-Salem and Greensboro—tonight approved 12 Negro pupils for admission to five previously all-white public schools.

The action, marking the first move toward voluntary desegregation in public schools in any Southeastern State, came in separate meetings of school boards in the three cities.

Five of the children are in Charlotte, six in Greensboro and one in Winston-Salem.

55 APPLICATIONS

The boards passed on a combined total of 55 applications for reassignment of Negro pupils. Of these, 41 were rejected. Charlotte turned down 35, Greensboro one and Winston-Salem three.

The school boards emphasized that decisions were made on the merits in individual applications and in accordance with the provisions of the state's pupil assignment act.

That act, passed by the 1955 General Assembly, gives local education boards authority to assign pupils to specific schools "so as to provide for the orderly and efficient administration of such public schools, the effective instruction of the pupils therein enrolled, and the health, safety and general welfare of such pupils."

RACE NOT MENTIONED

Race is not mentioned in the act.

The act has been held "not unconstitutional on its face" by the fourth circuit court of appeals, presumably because it does not preclude possible admission of a Negro student to a white school.

A break-through of the racial barriers in North Carolina's larger cities had been expected by many since the U.S. Supreme Court's anti-segregation rulings in 1954 and 1955.

Since early June, the Charlotte, Greensboro and Winston-Salem boards had been considering the reassignment requests filed just after the last school year ended.

The Charlotte board issued a statement explaining its action.

The decision to reassign five pupils came after the board found "it had no discretion to assign them elsewhere," the statement said.

The board declared that it had sought the best legal advice "to determine its responsibility under the pupil assignment act and the governing opinions of the United States Supreme Court and the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Reasons given for the actions of the Winston-Salem board followed the language of the pupil assignment act.

Charlotte's five approved requests were from three girls and two boys, ranging in ages from 12 to 16.

Three were reassigned to a junior high school and two to a high school.

Five of the Greensboro pupils were approved to enter a school containing both elementary and junior high school grades and one is a high school student.

Negroes in the North to vote.

This is one reason why Liberals Democrats are pressing for the whole civil rights bill, including part 3, which would empower the attorney general to use civil injunction procedures to speed up integration in the public schools of the South. They know that they will not win this fight, but by refusing to compromise on it they believe they can demonstrate that the Republicans are less eager for a complete civil rights bill than the Democratic National Committee.

There are 35 congressional districts outside the 13 Southern states where Negroes in 1950 formed more than 10 per cent of the population. A congressional study of voting trends in 1952 and 1956 in these districts shows the following:

1. Eisenhower got 42 per cent of the vote in 1952, and 47 per cent in 1956. In 1956, Adlai Stevenson got 2,647,112 votes in these districts to the President's 2,347,998. The President's 5 per cent gain compared with 2.2 per cent rise nationally.

2. The President carried 13 of the 35 districts in 1956, two more than in 1952. The switches came in the First District of Indiana (Gary) and New York's 18th.

3. Also, the large the Negro population in the districts studied, the larger the President's margin of increase. For example, his largest increase came in New York's 16th District (Harlem)—16.6 per cent. And his gain in Illinois' First (Chicago) was 10.9.

This analysis of the Negro vote, however, shows a marked difference between the Republican gains in the presidential race and the Republican record in the congressional elections. In these 35 districts, as in the rest of the nation, Eisenhower's record was much more impressive than the Republican congressional candidates, who just about duplicated their marks of 1952.

For example, the Republican share of the House vote in these areas were 41 per cent in both years. They increased their margin in 14 districts, dropped off a bit in 16 districts and remain the same in one.

On the basis of these figures, the prospect of any startling change in the voting pattern in the so-called "Negro districts" of the North is not great for 1958. Actually, the Democrats picked up one extra seat in 1956, and came out of the 35 districts with 28 seats to the Republicans' seven.

TWO FACTORS

Two factors, however, encourage the Republicans. First, in those districts where in 1956 they put on a major campaign, emphasizing that Southern Democratic committee chairmen in Congress were blocking civil rights legislation the GOP made impressive gains.

Second, the total vote in these 35 districts decreased as the Republican campaign for the Negro vote increased—a fact that favors the GOP since a large Negro vote in the past has usually favored the Democrats.

What the Republicans now believe is that, if an effective equal-voting bill is passed at this session, they will be able to claim credit for that fact and wage a really major campaign to bring the Negroes back to the Republican side, where they voted from Reconstruction days to 1928.

NO HOPES FOR 1958

This campaign would be waged in precisely those critical states of the North with large electoral votes where the Democrats have been especially strong since the start of the Roosevelt era. The GOP does not expect too much in 1958, for there are only three Democratic districts among the 35, and two Republican districts, where the margin of victory was 55 per cent or less.

By the presidential race of 1960, however, the Republicans think they will have time to exploit their civil rights record, not only in the Northern cities but in the border states and some states of the South — notably Virginia, Texas and Florida.

"Give us an equal-voting-rights bill," one Republican leader said today, "and by 1960 we will break the Roosevelt coalition of the large cities and the South, even without Eisenhower."

This is what is in the background of the vigorous debate in the Senate.

Atlantans See Whole Story In 'Bus Stop'

Atlanta theater-goers saw a virtually unadulterated version of "Bus Stop" here Wednesday night.

Veteran movie and Broadway actor Neil Hamilton joined Arena Playhouse regulars to play a key role Hollywood omitted in the film production of William Inge's comedy about a cowpuncher and a chorus girl.

Hamilton did a competent, polished job of interpreting a disilusioned, verbose, and slightly alcoholic ex-professor.

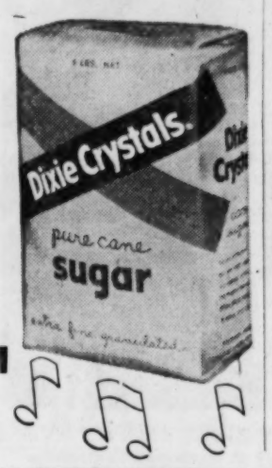

John Napier, promising young actor who appeared on Broadway in "No Time for Sergeants," was appealing and believable as the rebellious cowboy. Largest first-night audience of the season got a visual treat in the person of pretty Joan Ferchaud, who took the "chanteuse" part made famous by Marilyn Monroe. First-nighters also applauded Robert Dane, Al Cone and Jean Middlebrooks.

A realistic depot set by George Ellis reflected the ingenuity which has become a hallmark of this intimate theater group.

The Joe Kennedy production of "Bus Stop" will be repeated nightly this week through Sunday at the Arena Playhouse, 1150 Peachtree St., NE. Matinees are scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday. Evening performances will begin at 8:30 p.m. (MARJORY RUTHERFORD)

TWO GEORGIA PILOTS FLY RICKS TROPHY EVENT

12 Cross-Country Jet Pilots Will Be Honored at Dobbins

Dobbins Air Force Base will honor two Georgians and 10 other pilots of the Ricks Memorial Trophy Event with an open house Sunday.

The 12 Air National Guard F84F "Thunderstreaks" are expected to flash by the Dobbins control tower between 1:20 and 2:20 p.m. They will land for a mandatory 30-minute fueling stop.

The open house, sponsored by Georgia Air National Guard's 116th Fighter Interceptor Wing, will be held from 12:30 to 4 p.m. It is open to the general public.

Special guests of honor will be two Georgia pilots participating in the coast-to-coast jet hop, Maj. Fletcher E. Meadors of 2025 Peachtree Rd., Atlanta, and Maj. Philip E. Colman of Savannah. Both are members of the Georgia Air National Guard.

The cross-country event is held each year to memorialize the late Maj. Gen. Earl T. Ricks, chief of the National Guard's Air Force Division from 1950 until his death in 1954. It also provides a competition in which Air National Guard pilots can demonstrate combat capability while testing flight planning and high speed cruise-control knowledge and techniques.

The 12 jets will leave Fresno, Calif., at 6 a.m. (Pacific Time) Sunday). The first 30-minute refueling stop will be at Tuscon, Ariz. They will then proceed to Dallas, Tex., leaving about 12:20 p.m. for Dobbins AFB at Marietta. The flight will end at Andrews AFB, Maryland.

Maj. Meador flew 25 combat missions in Europe during World War II, winning the Air Medal. During the Korean war, he was operations officer of a fighter squadron of the Fifth Air Force. He flew 127 missions in F-51s and F-80s, winning the DFC and adding 11 clusters to his Air Medal.

Maj. Colman flew 86 combat missions in the China-Burma-India theater of war in World War II. He shot down six Zeros and received credit for two probably destroyed and seven damaged.

In the Korean conflict he flew 58 combat missions, destroying four MIG-15s and damaging one. He holds the DFC with two clusters, Air Medal with four Oak Leaf Clusters, U.N. and Korean Service Medals and the Unit Citation.

MOVIE REVIEW

'7 Deadly Sins' A Morality Play On Adult Level

"Adult entertainment" is the best way to sum up "The Seven Deadly Sins," now showing at the Peachtree Art.

Seven directors, including Roberto Rossellini, had a collective hand in the foreign movie which consists of vignettes woven around the vices of avarice, wrath, sloth, lust, envy, gluttony and pride.

Actors include Michele Morgan, Gerard Philipe, Isa Miranda, Frank Villard and Francoise Rosay. Dialogue is in French and Italian, but English sub-titles are more than adequate.

Each separate episode is a little gem. This is a morality play with Rabelaisian overtures: at least one sketch is the dramatization of a well-known "traveling salesman" story.

Able Steals 'Charley' at Chastain

By JIMMY SHELLEY

Will B. Able, and a more able person you'll never see, stole the show and the hearts of the first-night audience of "Where's Charlie?" at Chastain Amphitheater Tuesday night.

Caught up in a web of uproariously funny events, Charley finds himself impersonating his own aunt, a rich widow from Brazil.

Testing the love of his suitors, Charley tests the ribs of the audience in the gay musical of Broadway fame.

MOST ENCORES

Little things mean a lot, especially in a musical.

The most encores Chastain Park has seen this season was after one of Able's little touches in the "Once in Love With Amy" scene.

Richard Taber did a commendable job as one of Charley's suitors.

Other hits included were "My Darling, My Darling," which was sung by Jeff Warren and Renee Orin. Another hit was "The New Ashmolean Marching Society and Student Conservatory Band."

Orchestration, costuming, chorus and dancers all made for a delightful evening.

THE REAL AUNT

Rosalind Nadell, as Charley's real aunt, Donna Lucia, was the leading mezzo-soprano. She did an extremely good job, both vocally and from an acting standpoint.

The hilarious story deals with the efforts of Able to conceal the fact that his Brazilian aunt had not arrived for his graduation exercises. To accomplish this, he impersonates her, fooling suitors who are after her money.

One of the suitors has as his ward Charley's fiancee, and the suitor will get her money if she marries without the suitor's permission before she is twenty-one. In attempts to win the hand of the rich widow, the suitor agrees to write a release for his ward from her father's will.

The musical will be presented nightly at 8:30 through Sunday. The first night attracted a large audience.

Press Won't See Ike This Week

WASHINGTON, July 23 (UP)—President Eisenhower will not hold a news conference this week because of a conflict with a cabinet meeting tomorrow morning, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said today.

The usual cabinet meeting day is Friday. But Hagerty said it was moved up to Wednesday because Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and several other cabinet officers planned to be out of town toward the end of the week.

Hagerty said Eisenhower plans to spend next weekend at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, leaving here on Friday.

Make Your Eyes Last A Lifetime

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

Everyone wants his eyesight to last a lifetime. For this reason, the eyes should not be abused. They may tire easily if used improperly as when reading in a poorly lighted room or when there is a glare. There is no harm in watching television all evening provided the set is adjusted and the individual does not sit too close.

Eye hygiene must be started early in life. Never allow the baby to stare directly into the sun as the outer eye membranes are delicate and burn readily. Every child should have an examination of vision before starting school. The parents never will forgive themselves if a defect is discovered years later, to account for poor grades or an emotional quirk.

Meanwhile, the child must be taught to protect the eyes from injury and infection. Rubbing the lids with dirty fingers is taboo. Sharp instruments, such as knives and scissors, should be kept out of the toddler's reach. Choose toys suitable to the youngster's age, eschewing those with sharp points and edges. Hard and fast rules must be established before the older child is given a BB gun, slingshot, or bow and arrow. Warn about the dangers associated with throwing stones or dueling with sticks.

Shatterproof lenses are safer for children who wear glasses. Safety goggles are a must for workers in foundries and shops where flying particles are likely to be encountered.

Water is one of the best antidotes for a chemical burn. It must be used immediately to be effective. The best plan is to fill a washbowl with water and submerge the head to include the eyes. Opening and closing the lids under water helps to remove the irritant.

Another method is to have someone else holds the lids open while water or saline solution is poured over the eyeball. In chemical plants where there is danger of injuries of this nature, saline usually is kept in a bottle suspended from the wall, with a stoppered tube attached. Should a burn occur, the victim is seated beneath the bottle and the chemical is washed out immediately by squirting the solution into the eyes.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions relating to health and hygiene in his column, and by mail when self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Letters should be addressed to Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen, c/o The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta 2, Ga.

You can remember, if you try . . . some of the things you longed to buy . . . when you were young; a candy bar . . . a tiny model of a car . . . some roller skates, a baseball bat . . . or inexpensive thing like that.

Perhaps you said, "When I am grown . . . ## BILLY GRAHAM: Alcoholics, Seek Jesus

QUESTION: I am a heavy drinker and have been in the hospital for it, but nothing seems to help. I have asked God in my own way to help me; but am not a Christian, and I suppose that is why no help has come. What can I do?—B. B.

ANSWER: God can give you complete deliverance from the power of drink. I have known many who were confirmed alcoholics who have had this deliverance. However, God gives this victory to those who surrender their lives to Him and receive Him into their hearts. It is this act which makes you a Christian. It is that step which you must first take, accepting Christ as Savior of you soul and Lord of your body. But remember, it is an unconditional surrender.

Then just ask Him to take over for you. Put your trust in Him and forget your own weak will. Remember He can and will give you the victory. But, after this victory go on to serve Him with everything you have. I know a number of former alcoholics who are now among the most successful workers with those who are not Christians.

Finally, when temptation comes, remember this promise: "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man; but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able: but will with the temptation also make a way of escape, that ye may be able to bear it." (1 Corinthians 10:13.)

Probe Won't Get Evidence Jury Couldn't, Farris Says

Alderman Milton Farris Tuesday night warned the public not to expect the aldermanic board's special investigating committee to turn up evidence that the Fulton County Grand Jury itself could not uncover.

Farris, chairman of the three-man panel probing grand jury criticisms of the Atlanta Police Department, gently admonished the May-June term jury during an off-the-cuff address before the Buckhead Exchange Club.

"The grand jury is given the greatest investigative power any group can have under our democratic form of government," Farris declared.

"Despite having all this power," he asserted, "the (May-June) grand jury simply declares it has heard enough evidence to indicate something is crooked in the police department and then tells the city to clean it up.

"But then they refuse to reveal exactly what information they drew their conclusions from," he said.

Farris said he hopes the investigative committee will be ready to begin public hearings on its findings sometime in August.

He said the committee engaged Hugh Dorsey as its attorney and W. E. Taylor as special investigator to insure that the panel's reports would not be construed as "political or biased."

"At the hearings, we will present the grand jury criticisms and then some of the people who made certain statements," Farris said. "The public will be able to evaluate the statements and the character of the persons who made them.

"The committee undoubtedly will draw conclusions and make some recommendations," he said. "The public will have the opportunity to do the same thing and also to evaluate the work of the committee.

"Our police department should not be indicted as a whole," he declared, "especially when we don't know whether the criticisms are justified or not, or if they are founded in facts."

Georgia's School Superintendents Ask Stricter Standards for the Job

Constitution State News Service

ATHENS, July 23—A stringent tightening of the state's standards for county school superintendents was asked Tuesday in a resolution passed unanimously by the Georgia Association of County School Superintendents meeting here.

Paul D. West, Fulton County school superintendent and retiring president of the body, said that the stiffer requirements were asked as a means toward "complete professionalization" of superintendents' jobs.

The resolution calls for three sets of requirements, and asks that candidates for the office of county school superintendent meet one of the sets. The requirements are:

1. Hold a four-year degree from an accredited college and have not less than three years' teaching experience—with one year as principal or superintendent of an accredited school.

2. Hold a five-year degree with a major in school administration and have three years' experience.

3. Earn and now hold a four-year professional teacher's certificate, have three years teaching experience—with one year as principal or superintendent of an accredited school.

Requirements now in force in Georgia say that candidates must meet "at least one" of the following requirements: have three years' teaching experience, hold a first-grade high school teaching license, or a diploma from a college or normal school, or five years' experience in supervising schools, or must stand a State Board of Education test.

The county school officials also passed a resolution setting out the qualifications they believe a state school superintendent should have. They are: earn and hold a master's degree from an accredited college, eight years actual teaching experience—three of which as principal or superintendent of an accredited school or school system; or in lieu of the above, earn and hold a doctors' degree in education from an accredited college with at least five years teaching experience, three of which as principal or superintendent of an accredited school or school system.

Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, sent the county officials a letter applauding their proposed stand, West said Tuesday. Dr. Collins could not attend the meeting.

West said that the resolution was being sent Tuesday afternoon to the legislative committee of the Georgia Educational Assn. which will meet Wednesday in Atlanta.

"We certainly hope that this will become law in Georgia," West said. "We need the highest type of educators as leaders of our teachers. It is time to put the superintendents' jobs on a professional basis rather than a political one."

In other business the school superintendents elected the following officers for the coming year: Harold Daniel, Zebulon, Pike County, president; Arthur J. Benson, Buena Vista, Marion County, vice president, and Miss Mary Lee Clark, Woodbine, Camden County, secretary-treasurer.

Uncle Billy, 71, Tells of 5 Days Wandering in Snake-Infested Swamp

Constitution State News Service

STATESBORO, July 23—William Robert (Uncle Billy) Oglesby, 71, was recuperating Tuesday in Bulloch County Hospital after five days of nightmarish wandering in a Burke County swamp.

Lack of food and water, droves of mosquitoes, ticks and "the biggest rattlesnake I ever saw" were among ingredients of his harrowing experience, he recounted to his son, Elmer Oglesby, of Portal.

The elderly man was found Monday night by National Guardsmen from Waynesboro, Burke County and Jenkins County officers.

Uncle Billy told his rescuers he became lost in Briar Creek swamp near Heath's Bridge, between Sardis and Girard, when he took a wrong road walking from Millen to Girard.

They Meant No Criticism Of Police, Professors Say

A group of Georgia Tech professors Tuesday issued an apology to the Atlanta police department for what they described as "a misinterpretation" of a letter in regard to the slaying of an associate professor last weekend.

Dr. Vernon Crawford, professor of physics at Tech, said a letter written about the robbery-slaying of Dr. William K. Pursley, 32, was intended to clarify "fragmentary" news stories about what Dr. Pursley was doing out on the streets at a late hour and was not intended as criticism of police methods.

Dr. Crawford said he had contacted three of the five members of the physics department who signed the letter, was authorized to speak for them and added "I feel sure I also am speaking for the other two signers."

LETTER TO JENKINS

A letter of apology for the misunderstanding will be mailed to Police Chief Jenkins, Dr. Crawford said.

Dr. Crawford said a newspaper seized upon a single paragraph in the letter and built a story on that alone, making it appear the Tech faculty was highly critical of Atlanta police.

"We want it clearly understood that we are not questioning the competency of police or police methods," he declared. "We know the police are putting forth every effort on the case and those assigned to the investigation are courteous, efficient and capable."

Dr. Crawford said some question had been raised as to why Dr. Pursley was out on the streets when attacked at 1:40 a.m. Friday. He said members of the faculty at Tech knew Dr. Pursley often worked late in his office, grading papers, and on the night of his injury was seen there as late as midnight.

NEAR HOME

When attacked by two youths in the 800 block of Juniper street, NE, Dr. Pursley was within two and a half blocks of his apartment house at 710 Peachtree St., Dr. Crawford said.

The paragraph in the letter which Dr. Crawford said had been singled out by the newspaper read:

"We feel that a grievous mistake in judgment was made in evaluating the condition of Dr. Pursley after this brutal attack and we call upon the police and city authorities to see to it that those who committed the murder are brought to justice."

Dr. Crawford said the faculty still felt that an error in judgment had been committed, since Dr. Purslay died the following day. However, he added the faculty did not seek to lay the blame for the error on police.

REFUSED HOSPITALIZATION

Two patrolmen who answered the call said they radioed for an ambulance, an attendant took Dr. Pursley's pulse count and found it near normal. The patrolmen said Dr. Pursley refused to go to the hospital, refused offers of medical aid elsewhere and asked to be taken to his apartment.

DeKalb Wife Survives 60-Foot Fall in Well

A DeKalb County Negress Tuesday survived a 60-foot fall into a well filled with only one foot of water.

The woman, Mrs. Frankie McGuire, 54, of Porter Road in DeKalb, injured her left ankle and right shoulder when she fell into an abandoned well at the home of her employer. The accident occurred at 3953 Rockbridge Rd., Avondale, home of S. T. Coreley.

She was rescued 40 minutes later by DeKalb Assistant Fire Chief D. P. Martin, who was lowered into the well on a rope, attached a second rope to the woman and helped pull her to safety.

GEA Pushing School Aid in Washington

Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 23—A delegation of Georgia educators is here, hoping to see House passage of the administration's federal aid to education bill.

The Georgians include two former GEA presidents, Kankakee (Buck) Anderson of Polk County, and Paul Sprayberry of Cobb County; Mrs. Marion Hartley, secretary of the Georgia PTA; Bill Smith of Charlton County, and Bill Hasty of Cherokee County.

It was the second Georgia group to hit town in two days. A group legislative headed by Secretary of State Ben W. Fortson Jr., arrived yesterday to study the federal archives buildings here, with a view toward providing an archives building for Georgia.

Anderson said he believes most Georgia citizens are anxious for federal aid for school construction, even if politicians are not.

DeKalb To Consult Citizens On Renaming of 250 Streets

By OSCAR JOHNSON

DeKalb County will take the first step in its street-renaming project this week.

Letters will be sent to owners and occupants of houses on some 20 of the 250 streets whose names are to be changed to eliminate duplication. County Planning Director Louis Cook said purpose of the letters, which ask the occupants' "thoughts" on the change, is to sample public opinion on the changeover.

Major problem anticipated by the county, said Cook, is that those who live on streets will be unable to agree on a new name. Several persons have already suggested changes for duplicated street names, Cook said, only to find that the new names were duplicates of other street names in the county.

Cook said the problem of finding acceptable new names is even greater than that faced in earlier years when few people lived in the county. Some early street namers even went so far as to name streets after comic book characters.

Among the unusual names decided upon earlier include Mark Trail, Scottie's Circle and Cherry Lane, which are names of the principle characters of the comic strip, "Mark Trail."

Another area of the county has streets with Western names, as Horseshoe Drive, Bridle Lane, Will Rogers Place, Apache Trail and Zane Gray Drive. In still other locations the streets are named after guns, as Winchester, Colt and Remington, and for rocks such as Arkose and Flagstone.

Cook said to assist the homeowners the county has obtained a Los Angeles street directory which has, he said, many beautiful names which DeKalb residents may choose.

Atlantan Taught Music to Athletes

By AGNES GAINES

Mrs. Estelle Archer, a talented lyric soprano, has had a varied career which has included practically everything from losing a shoe in the middle of a performance to teaching music to football and baseball players.

Although she gave up singing as a profession three years ago to come to Atlanta and become a housewife, she still pursues it as a hobby. She will appear in the Atlanta Pops Concert Sunday, presenting an operatic aria.

After her graduation from Louisiana State University, she spent a summer teaching music history at Mississippi State College.

"VERY APT PUPILS"

"It turned out to be one of my most interesting experiences," the brunette singer said. "At first, when I discovered that the class was to be the football and baseball teams, I really was discouraged. But they all turned out to be very apt pupils. I enjoyed teaching them."

She was Estelle Hawkins before she married Grady Archer.

One of her most memorable experiences came during an opera production. The scene was a country fair and she was dancing in light ballet slippers. One flew off and sailed through the air, landing in the orchestra pit.

She managed to keep her poise on stage and after the performance the conductor calmly presented her with the missing shoe, saying simply: "Miss Hawkins, you lost something."

CARNEGIE HALL

Mrs. Archer made her debut at Carnegie Hall during her senior year at college in 1948. After her graduation she traveled for two years in the Southern states and in New England, giving concerts.

Her career has included church work, too. She is now soloist at St. Mark's Methodist Church and before that she sang at St. Luke's Episcopal.

"I've been church soloist for almost every religion except the Mohammedans," she smiled.

Although she comes from a medical family, her mother, father and grandfather were all excellent singers. She began piano lessons when she was 5 and at 10 she began studying voice.

"BACH TO BOOGIE-WOOGIE"

Mrs. Archer, whose music tastes run "from Bach to boogie-woogie," is a native of Jackson, Miss. She doesn't like hillbilly but she does like rock 'n' roll.

"When I was a child, I used to sit at the radio and sing along with the singers," she recalled.

Mrs. Archer gave most of the credit for her success to the late Frank M. Slater of Jackson, her first music teacher, who encouraged her interest in music.

She also studied with Madame Margaret Matzanauer, Metropolitan Opera singer and contemporary of Caruso.

Like most singers, Mrs. Archer likes to cook up "exotic dishes." Her husband is tolerant of this practice, she said, "and he always tries to eat them."

Her favorite dish is highly seasoned Italian spaghetti.

The Archers have six French poodles, which keep Mrs. Archer occupied caring for them.

Mrs. Archer was recently elected president of the Atlanta chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota alumni group, honorary music fraternity.

Cotton Prints Star In Swim Suits

Another exciting mid-summer fashion in swim suits is the use of wonderful cotton lastex prints. Some of the patterns look just like those we've been wearing in dresses; big florals in brilliant colors scattered all over the suit.

There are also some interesting Paisley designs on unusual color grounds in blue or green blendings. A third type is the bold splashy prints in hot colors on black grounds.

Special Games Make Fun For Handicapped Children

By ELIZABETH MORGAN

Nineteen busy youngsters sat working at arts and crafts in the rustic-style recreation hall at green, wooded East Lake Park.

Ranging in age from 7 to 14, they were taking part in the Easter Seal day camp program. The program is sponsored jointly by the Georgia Society for Crippled Children and Adults and the Atlanta Parks and Recreation Department.

Fingers sometimes faltered, for most of these boys and girls have cerebral palsy or polio. But they diligently wove place mats on a tiny hand loom and plaited bright, colorful belts.

TWO SESSIONS

This summer two sessions have operated for two weeks each. The day's activities start at 9 a.m., when the children arrive by school bus and car. The Red Cross has furnished volunteer drivers for some of the campers. A three-week session for Negro children was held at Mozley Park.

Eleven counselors—five regulars, five volunteer, and one from the recreation department—pack them up for the daily hour-long swimming period at the East Lake Country Club. A bus takes them to the beach which is a half mile from the campsite.

FIELD TRIPS

On Mondays, when the country club is closed to swimmers, the children go on field trips. Sometimes they study nature, sometimes they go riding or fishing. Crutches, wheel chairs and braces must go along, but the paraphernalia makes little difference to these campers.

Mrs. Thomas Flaherty, smiling, brown-eyed director of the day camp, explained that a large number of counselors is needed to transport the children quickly and efficiently.

And besides, she added, they can get their heads together and improvise handy ways to play almost any game. For example, this camp's brand of softball uses a tennis ball and ping-pong paddle. If the batter happens to sit at the plate in a wheel chair, a counselor stands ready to push him to first base.

The camp has been directed by its present sponsors for the past four summers. The campers, of course, are medically approved before they can enroll. Besides the director, the four regular counselors are specialists in various fields of recreation. Most of the volunteers have had experience as camp counselors, although they may not have worked with handicapped youngsters.

In the middle of the day, the campers eat a hot lunch cooked by one of the Cerebral Palsy School-Clinic cooks. After lunch, they take part in quiet, indoor activity. Sometimes they sit around in a circle and sing camp songs, and late in the camp day they square dance. Sessions end at 2:30 p.m.

The campers work on a special project, too. At the end of each session they put on a camper-planned, camper-styled skit. They do the writing, make the props, costumes, and invitations, and star on the stage.

Mrs. Flaherty summed up the general effect of the program: "We try to give the children a true camping experience. They learn a lot, have a lot of fun, and we find that camp brings them out socially."

Successful Dieters Give Tips

By IDA JEAN KAIN

There is no column this dietitian enjoys writing more than to quote excerpts from the letters of successful dieters, particularly when they pass along novel tips to help other struggling reducers.

One observant overweight was jolted into slowing down her eating speed. Here is her interesting report.

"Recently in a local restaurant a very stout man sat opposite me. His way of eating fascinated me. He put large helpings in his mouth, chewed the food hastily a few times, and had another large helping ready to pop into his mouth after scarcely swallowing the first. Consequently, before I had finished one-half a sandwich, he had consumed a full plate lunch.

"That experience started me thinking that perhaps I had been doing almost the same thing without realizing it. . . . I certainly did eat too fast. Then and there I made a rule for myself, and now each mouthful of food is thoroughly chewed and I do not hurry to get the next forkful ready.

"Surprisingly enough, I find that with this more leisurely way of eating, my stomach is satisfied with less food, and I enjoy my meals more. Perhaps this suggestion will help other stouties."

Thank you for sharing. There is a scientific reason for the mechanisms regulating food intake to signify satisfaction.

Then too, with fast eating, the emphasis is on filling up. When you fail to savor food for flavor you eat for quantity and this so often leads to overeating.

Another reducer praises calorie counting.

"I am satisfied that the only way to lose weight and keep it off is to plan the meal around a protein food and to keep the total number of calories for the day within 1,100. I'm most happy about this way of losing weight. Tell your readers that pills won't help."

An Ohioan writes:

"I find it helps to read your column just before dinner. It serves as a reminder to keep me in line."

Many thanks. And may I add, your friendly letters are an inspiration and just the tonic I need.

A Phone Call In the Night

You can't work for a newspaper without having a few friends who will scare you to death with the telephone now and then. Sometimes this is a drunk who has merely called up to ask you to hold the line while he kills himself and sometimes it is a convivial group of friends who have gotten together a couple of time zones away and simply want to tell you they're having fun and wish you were there.

There are obvious disadvantages, of course. You may be a doddering type who gets heart palpitations when the phone rings after 10 p.m. (I am.) Or you may be the type who holds with unbroken rest. (I'm that, too.) But these disadvantages are outweighed, I suppose, by advantages. For one thing, when you travel to far places yourself and are having a good time, you feel no compunction about calling up old friends at home.

And there's another advantage I didn't think of until the other night. (I use "night" loosely. It was dark but day was hovering around in the next block waiting to break.) I was sleeping soundly and dreaming of various pleasant things like mountain streams and sourwood honey when the telephone set up a terrific din somewhere in the house. We have one of those long cords which means you can never find the phone in the dark. I finally found it and weathered that initial shocker, "Long distance is calling," and then I settled down to have a grand, expensive visit with a couple of friends I haven't seen for two weeks and won't see for another three or four days.

When they hung up I put down the phone to find my children, big-eyed and anxious, in the hall.

"Who was it?" asked my son. "Was it all right?"

I explained that some of our Atlanta friends had gotten together with some California friends and since the night was young by Pacific time (if a tired old hag, EST) they had called up.

"Well, I'm hungry," said my child. "Do you want a bowl of cereal or a cup of coffee?"

"No milk," I pointed out. "You drank it for supper."

"We could get some," he suggested. "The fruit stand's open all night."

The paper was on the porch. The dog had awakened at his post by the front door and was yawning and shaking himself. A bird tuned up in the sweetgum tree in the backyard. The night was softly and subtly turning to day.

"There ought to be a sunrise," my son said. "Would you like to see it?"

I looked at the bed longingly. After all, I've seen a sunrise. And then I looked at his face. His sisters had tumbled back into bed without really waking up but he was wide awake and like the dog, Abel, young enough and curious enough to want to be abroad in the world, sniffing the air and admiring the shapes and colors of the town in this foreign early morning light.

"Let me get into some clothes," I said.

It's such a pleasant thing to watch the town bestir itself. We waved at the street cleaner who, with barrel cart and broom, tidied the gutters of Peachtree street. We saw paper boys finishing their rounds and truckers starting out. We drove to the top of a hill and saw the sun slip up in a blaze of color through the trees over in the park.

And then we went home and had coffee and marvelled that a phone call in the night could so change the dimensions of a day.

SHE ALWAYS HAS A CHILD UNDERFOOT
"Hectic Hattie" Needs Some Time To Relax

Marcia Winn

'Hectic Hattie' Brings Protest From Writer

Fellow mothers, I think I've had it. The press release which came to this desk the other day dedicated to "Hectic Hattie" is the final blow.

Hectic Hattie, the release said, is easily recognized. She usually has a toddler underfoot and a new baby in the nursery. She is always remarking, as she pushes a wisp of hair out of her eyes, that 24 hours in a day aren't enough. She never gets caught up. She looks a wreck.

The press release admits that a new and growing family can be "difficult to propel through a day of organization, much less relaxation," but says that all one needs to do to be relaxed and well groomed throughout the day is "a little planning."

HERE'S HOW

The release then gives some remarkable suggestions on how to do that "little" planning:

1. "For housework, wear well-cut, simple dresses, shorts, or slacks." (Do any young American mothers today dream of wearing anything else?)
2. "Save the high-heeled pumps for a quick change before company arrives or hubby comes through the door." (Count on one finger the mothers you know who attempt housework in high-heeled pumps.)
3. "Look for many extra minutes for relaxation during the workday."

This suggestion, which wins our $64,000 for wistful wonder, is to be achieved in this manner:

"While the stew is brewing on the stove, Junior is playing outside (respectful query: Junior, described as a toddler underfoot, is under whose feet and whose eyes during this period?), and the baby is asleep at last, take a breather."

"TURN THE RADIO LOW"

This does not mean gabbing on the telephone or reading the paper or just flopping somewhere with your feet up. It doesn't even mean taking a bath or getting (finally) that stack of soiled diapers into the washing machine. No.

"Turn the radio low, stretch out on the couch, take off your shoes, and——" guess what? "Place a drop or two of eye lotion in each eye and relax."

Junior, that tranquil toddler playing so blissfully alone in the big outdoors while you relaxed, may have disappeared, the stew may have brewed to a crisp, the new baby may be shrieking his head off, but, girl, will your eyes shine!

'Talent Scout' Parents Can Help Gifted Child

By DOROTHY BARCLAY
(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK, July 23—The doting parents of a thoroughly normal youngster who are convinced that their child is a genius are well known in practically every academic and social circle.

Less obvious but possibly just as prevalent, however, are parents who complacently overlook latent talents and allow children's special gifts to go undetected and unstimulated.

This is the opinin of Dr. Paul Witty, professor of education at Northwestern University and a specialist on the gifted child.

Although well aware of the dangers of pushing children too hard, Dr. Witty feels that to allow special abilities to languish can also lead to difficulties at times besides being wasteful of human resources.

"TALENT SCOUT"

He looks to the day when every parent and teacher will be "a talent scout" for identifying gifted children. But this involves more than widespread administration of intelligence tests.

As the definition of gifted is broadened to include a variety of abilities beyond the purely intellectual, the importance of perceptive observation by parents and teachers increases, Dr. Witty points out in the current issue of "National Parent-Teacher."

The well-informed parent holds a strategic place in any drive to conserve human talent, he declares. "He is in a position to discover gifts and to discover them early if given reliable yardsticks." Participation in child study and parent education groups, such as those conducted by PTA's, can provide sound information on which to judge, he holds.

GENIUS ASSERTS ITSELF

Out-and-out genius will assert itself but the number of children in this category is tiny indeed compared to the larger group of youngsters whose latent promise and ability, overlooked by adults, dwindles through disuse.

Some tests are available for discovering qualities of leadership, but those for identifying the child gifted in various areas of creativity are largely in the experimental stage.

Signs for parents to be alert to in a child include:

1. A large vocabulary, accurately used.
2. The use of phrases and sentences at an early age.
3. The ability to tell or reproduce a story.
4. Keen observation and retention of information about things observed.
5. Interest in books and later enjoyment of atlases, dictionaries and encyclopedias.
6. Interest in calendars and clocks.
7. The ability to concentrate longer than most children.
8. Early discovery of cause-and-effect relationships.
9. Early development of reading ability.
10. Proficiency in drawing, music or other art forms.

The child of special ability needs wise and sensitive handling.

Although there is at present little guidance help available to him or his parents, interest in this area is growing rapidly. Teachers or librarians may be able to suggest reading that will help parents maintain a sound balance in the development and discipline of their gifted young.

WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms or Round Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the intestines where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredients go right to work—kill Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms or Round Worms, ask your druggist for Jayne's P-W or R-W . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son and their successors, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

"Wise wives protect carpets from rug-cutters."

There's more "rug-cutting" going on than that done by teen-age rock and rollers. When you roll back the carpet, you'll find quite a bit of dirt and grit that your vacuum cleaner could never reach. We know you can't clean both sides of a carpet, but Sharian can — getting out all the dirt that cuts away at the very roots of a carpet, down where the pile grows.

2 Michigan Boys Held In Slugging of Merchant

Lowndes County Sheriff J. L. Futch said Tuesday that two Jackson, Mich., teen-agers were held in Valdosta on charges of assault and attempted murder.

He said the youths are 15 and 13.

Futch said the pair, driving a stolen car, stoped at a service station and store about three miles west of Valdosta for gasoline and a soft drink and that W. A. Rambo, operator of the place, reported that the 15-year-old youth slugged him with a soft drink bottle.

The youths fled but were caught several miles away.

The sheriff said while the warrants charge the youths with felonies, they might be turned over to Michigan authorities for prosecution on stolen car charges.

Jack T. Russell Is Found Dead; Pistol Nearby

Jack T. Russell, 34, of 4226 Roswell Rd., NE, an Atlanta businessman, was found dead Tuesday beside the driveway at his home, police said.

Detectives W. S. Acree and Harry McCollister said Russell had a bullet wound in the forehead and a .32-caliber pistol was found near his right hand. Detectives also said they found a note of instructions believed to have been written by Russell.

A witness told police that Russell had been despondent over business affairs.

Husband Dies Of Shotgun Wound Here

An Atlanta man Tuesday was found dead in his home of a shotgun wound, after he was reported to have threatened his wife and then asked her to kiss him goodby, police said.

Detective J. G. Adams said the wife, Mrs. Ruth Power, 41, of 627 Brownwood Ave., SE, was at a home next door when the shot was fired.

James Claude Power, 46, evidently snapped a .38-caliber pistol twice and when that failed to fire picked up a 12-gauge, double-barrel shotgun, Adams related.

Mrs. Power was quoted as saying her husband, a truck line employe, came home for lunch and later came to a back porch where she was sitting and threatened to end his life. Adams said Mrs. Power told him her husband drew back the hammer on a pistol, shoved it against her side and threatened to kill her.

Mrs. Power walked through the house to the front porch, Adams said he was told. She was quoted as saying her husband asked her to kiss him goodby, then she heard the sound of a gun being snapped and ran next door.

Adams said he found a .38-caliber revolver on a television set near the body. He added the gun had been snapped twice but had failed to fire.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by J. Austin Dillon.

DeKalb Puts Off Decision On Memorial Dr. Zoning

DeKalb County commissioners Tuesday considered and then put off until their next meeting a request to rezone a huge tract on Memorial drive to allow construction of a shopping center.

The zoning application came under heated attack by property owner George Obear, who charged the shopping center would detract from the beauty of the main road from Atlanta to Stone Mountain.

The rezoning request would change 123,000 square feet of land lying on both sides of Memorial drive, southwest of Rockbridge road intersection from the end of an existing commercial district to the approximate location of the circumferential Expressway, from residential to commercial. Applicant E. D. Dunn said his firm hopes to build a shopping center there with expenditures of $500,000 in the next 18 months and more later.

Obear declared before the commission, "Nobody realizes the magniture, the audacity of this project." He said it is a concern of every citizen of the state because the road leads to Stone Mountain, site of a proposed Confederate Memorial.

Dunn argued construction of the Expressway will take 90 per cent of the Stone Mountain traffic off Memorial drive.

The Commission also deferred action on a zoning appeal regarding proposed construction of 46 units of apartments at 2851 North Decatur road. Acting on a motion by Commissioner Clark Harrison, the group decided to inspect the residential area before making a final zoning decision.

In other action the commission approved a zoning application allowing Citizens & Southern Holding Co. to construct a bank building on the east side of Clairmont road, about 350 feet south of the North Decatur road intersection.

It also voted to continue a policy adopted in 1956 under which all developers of property in the county who desire that water mains be installed on their property and in their subdivisions pay the cost of materials used, with the county furnishing labor.

Purchases approved by the commission included $3,475 for a refuse packing garbage truck from Truck & Equipment Co.; $3,269 for air conditioning for the Civil Court room from Advanced Refrigeration Co., and $4,840 for air conditioning for the Tax Commission office, from Advanced Refrigeration Co.

He's Really Cured

CLINTON, Iowa, July 23 (UP)—Carl Martinsen, 74, submitted to a "rub down" rheumatism treatment on a street by a couple who claimed curative powers. After treatment, Martinsen discovered the couple had lifted his wallet containing $2,200.

House Votes 140-55 To Take Up $1.5 Billion School Building Bill

WASHINGTON, July 23 (UP)—The $1,500,000,000 school construction bill passed its first legislative hurdle today when the House, on a 140 to 55 standing vote, agreed to take up the controversial measure.

The action came amid angry Democratic charges that President Eisenhower pulled the rug from under the bill through a "wishy-washy" endorsement of the compromise school building measure.

They said Eisenhower dealt what amounted to a "death blow" to the bill when he told Republican congressional leaders this morning that he was not entirely satisfied with it but would accept it "as a starter."

White House Press Secretary Hagerty said later the President "would like very much to have a school bill." He also said House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. was "correct" in reporting that the President "would accept" the present House bill.

But Hagerty said the President still differed with a provision which would distribute half of the money on the basis of need and half on the basis of school population. Eisenhower wants the distribution based solely on need.

House votes to take up legislation usually are only a formality. But there had been reports the House would kill the school measure immediately by refusing to agree to debate it.

Rep. William M. Colmer (D-Miss), a leader of the House's Southern Democrats and a foe of the measure, immediately cut the ground from under any such attempt, however, by saying the chamber should hold a full-scale debate.

Convicts Snarling Sheriff's Cars?

INDIANAPOLIS, July 23 (AP)—Sheriff Robert A. O'Neal today accused revenge-minded prisoners of sabotaging his patrol cars.

"I'm fed up," the sheriff said, as he cited instances where units of his 29-car fleet turned up with loose wheel nuts, radiators filled with gasoline, collapsed gas tanks, faulty brakes, jammed doors and crankcases without oil.

O'Neal criticized the Marion (Indianapolis) County commissioners for putting prisoners to work in the county garage where the sheriff's cars are stored and serviced.

Tito's Press Applauds Dulles Disarming Talk

BELGRADE, July 23 (AP)—Official Yugoslavia tonight praised Secretary of State Dulles' speech on disarmament.

Borba, organ of Marshal Tito's Communist party, said Dulles' proposals "stimulate toward a practical beginning on disarmament."

In his TV address to the nation yesterday, Dulles suported the U.S. plan for a limited disarmament agreement as a first step toward world disarmament.

The paper deplored, however, the fact that Dulles did not suggest a general ban on thermonuclear weapons.

BREEZE ON BEAUTY—As Tuesday's temperature hit a high of 94 degrees, Miss Beverly Roberts, of 1855 Stanton Ct., East Point, found a way to cool off with breezes in front of this large electric fan. She came here from California two years ago, says she likes Atlanta weather—even hot weather.

Webb Is Asked To Speed Validation of Water Bonds

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Fulton Solicitor General Paul Webb was asked Tuesday to take "immediate and proper steps" to validate $1,050,000 in county water revenue bonds that are to be used to help finance the construction of the south Fulton water system.

County commissioners passed a resolution in which they pointed out that they previously had approved the issuance of the bonds that the county is allowed to issue to help pay for the water system.

"Request is hereby made that you take immediate and proper steps for the confirmation and validation of said bonds as provided by law," the resolution requested Webb.

ROUTINE REQUIREMENT

County Attorney Harold Sheats said passage of the resolution is a routine requirement in order for the solicitor to file the necessary validation proceedings in Fulton Superior Court.

The proceedings already have been drawn and apparently will be turned over to Webb for action soon, Sheats indicated.

Part of the water system has already been started with funds from general revenue. The bonds will be retired with revenue from tapping fees and surcharges made on monthly water bills of users.

In other actions Tuesday, the commissioners:

1. Voted to let the City of East Point sell as many of its sewer bonds as it can to apply on a debt East Point owes the county as its share of the cost of expanding the Utoy disposal plant, and to let that city pay the remainder of the debt next year after it gets the Legislature to change a charter provision now holding up the bond sales.

UNABLE TO SELL

The situation arose after East Point was unable to sell its bonds because bids did not bring a par value. Mayor J. G. Stith explained that the charter provision forbids the sale of bonds for less than par value.

Stith said the city will be able to sell about $80,000 worth of the bonds at par value and asked the county to carry the rest of the debt until East Point gets the Legislature next year to strike that provisions from its charter.

The county had to pay East Point's share of the cost because it guaranteed the payments of all municipalities who benefit from the plant. Sheats said payment of approximately $100,000 of the cost had "wrecked" the county's revolving funds.

2. Approved recommendations of the citizens building advisory committee for the appointment of architects for county bond building projects. These were A. Thomas Bradbury, for the new Civil-Criminal Court Building; McDonald & Co. for the central health center, and home for the aged, and John J. Harte Co., juvenile court building.

Johnny Pair Hospitalized by A Lawn Mower

Six-year-old Johnny Pair went to the hospital Tuesday.

But this trip his condition was not as serious as the previous one which cost the youth the sight in both eyes.

Johnny was playing at his home at 83 Hunter St., SE, when he got a finger caught in a lawn mower.

At Grady Hospital, where the decision was made earlier this year to remove Johnny's remaining eye because of a cancerous condition, the latest injury was described as minor. He was treated and dismissed.

Municipal Leaders To Meet Tomorrow at Americus

Constitution State News Service

AMERICUS, July 23—The problem of population shifts to urban centers will concern the third district meeting of the Georgia Municipal Assn. to be held Thursday in Americus. Representatives from 30 towns are expected to attend.

The group will be welcomed by Fred Bowen, mayor of Americus, and A. C. Felton, president of the Georgia Municipal Assn.

The morning session of the day-long program includes two speakers and a panel discussion.

J. W. Fanning, chairman, division of agricultural economics, University of Georgia, will speak on "What Is Happening Population-Wise in Georgia."

Phil Hammer of Hammer & Co., Inc., business analysts, Atlanta, will present "Ways to Meet the Problem" in his address.

"Discussing Your Problem" is the topic of a panel discussion for which Fanning will serve as moderator and Hammer as a panel member.

2 Rescue Teams Led by Nour Fail To Find Man Seen Trapped on Stone Mountain Side

Two rescue teams led by Elias Nour of Stone Mountain Tuesday night failed to find a person witnesses said they had seen caught in a pocket high on Stone Mountain.

The second rescue squad finally gave up and descended from the mountain at 10:50 p.m. Before coming down, Capt. Allen H. Williams, of the DeKalb Fire Department, was lowered on a rope into the pocket pointed out by witnesses. He found nothing.

The "man on the side of the mountain" was first reported seen by Miss Gladys Nelson, of Stone Mountain, who is reported to have said she saw him fall.

Later, Miss Carolyn Bell, of 721 W. Howard Ave., Decatur, said she saw the man "start to climb and then slip down to where he was before."

She added, "He was climbing up with his hands like he was trying to climb into the mountain." James Camp, her fiance, said he also saw the man.

They said they saw him about 6:15 p.m.

Nour led the first rescue party up the mountain just before dark. The first descent down the side found nothing, and the group reformed at the base of the mountain opposite the carvings.

By 8:20 p.m. three searchlights were focused on the mountain's flank. By 9:15 p.m., the DeKalb Fire Department had arrived and set up two other searchlights.

The crowd numbered some 50 to 60 persons. Police cars were present from the DeKalb, Stone Mountain and Clarkston police departments.

Prior to the second rope search, rescue teams covered the base of the mountain, but found nothing.

Following the descent after the second attempt, Capt. Williams said he felt the witnesses must have been "mistaken" in their belief that there was someone trapped on the mountain.

The second attempt had sent Capt. Williams 450 feet down the side of the mountain into a large pocket above and to the right of the carvings.

Machines Will Sign Bonds 207,720 Times for Officials

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Officials will use New York machines to avoid summer-long writers' cramps in affixing more than 200,000 signatures to the $51,930,000 city bond issue, Mayor Hartsfield said Tuesday.

Hartsfield, City Compt. Earl Landers, City Clerk Joe L. Richardson and Fulton Court Clerk J. Walton Simmons, must sign each of the $1,000 bonds. That means there must be 207,720 signatures because each of the 51,930 separate bonds must be signed by each official.

Only $15,465,000 of the $51,930,000 authorized in the April 17 bond election will be sold. The remainder will be stored in one of New York's leading bank vaults and withdrawn as they are sold.

The mayor said each of the signers will sign 18 of the bonds at once, thus reducing the number of writings required. He expects that the task can be completed in three days "instead of all summer," and that the cost of taking the officials to New York will be less than the insurance required guarantee safe delivery of the securities to New York if the signing were done in Atlanta.

Following is a list of the $15,465,000 in bonds already sold.

Schools, $8,465,000 of the $16,930,000 authorized; sewers, $800,000 of the $11 million authorized; water, $2 million of the $4,650,000 authorized; traffic improvements, $1 million of $5 million; urban renewal, $250,000 of $1,500,000; parks, $100,000 of $1 million, and all of the $1,250,000 for police, $300,000 for libraries, $500,000 for fire, $700,000 for City Hall and $100,000 for garage improvements.

Forest Park's Chief To Head Americus Force

The resignation of Forest Park Police Chief W. S. (Bill) Thurston was accepted "with deep regrets" Tuesday night by city council.

Meanwhile, The Constitution learned that Thurston has accepted the chief's position of the Americus Police department. It is understood that his salary will exceed the $410 per month salary he drew as chief at Forest Park.

After unanimous adoption of the motion, a packed council room echoed with volleys of "Why?" the chief was resigning his job.

L. D. Strietelmeier, who presided in the absence of Mayor J. K. Currie, said it was not the council's job to question the reasons of a resignation, but to accept or reject the resignation.

Heated implications were tossed by several members of the audience, apparently based on a statement by Thurston that said his resignation was prompted by "political pressure." Thurston, who did not attend the meeting and was unavailable for comment, had said that he was sure "certain members" of the council would not give him "their full support."

The Isolated Champ

Reports in the New York gazettes infer that the big city is about as excited about the heavyweight title go between Floyd Patterson and Hurricane Jackson next Monday night as New Orleans is about the Pelicans.

The hullabaloo generally associated with a championship match is missing, prompting one author to remark: "About the only citizens trying to get ducats to the bout are out-of-town visitors who can't obtain tickets to My Fair Lady."

Outlar

Perhaps Jack Dempsey swung the knockout punch when he said, "There's no excitement to either of 'em."

Patterson, featured in this week's Post as the "Tenderhearted Champ," earned the title by knocking off old man Archie Moore. He's never fought any prominent heavyweights, simply because there aren't any around to fight. Patterson may be, as his manager Cus D'Amato claims, a great fighter, but he's had no chance to prove it.

Jackson is a crude windmill-type fighter with a concrete chin and no style. He deserves a shot at the crown, because there's no one else around.

The pugilistic plight was pin-pointed at a bout not so long ago when Joe Louis, Dempsey, Gene Tunney and Jim Braddock climbed into the ring to take bows. A neighbor turned to John Carmichael (Chicago Daily News) and said, "I'd rather see any two of them fight right now with their clothes on, than what's going on in a few minutes."

—A New Pattern for Dressmaker Lence

Meanwhile, Emil Lence, the dress manufacturer turned promoter, considers the Patterson-Jackson affair the most exciting thing since the New Look.

Lence didn't exactly start from scratch, for NBC put 175 Gs into the radio-TV kitty. He claims that more than a $100,000 has been reaped via ticket sales, and predicts a gate of more than $300,000.

This is Lence's debut as a promoter in the big time. He previously promoted at Eastern Parkway in Brooklyn. Lence got a break before Uncle Sam planted a dissolving haymaker on the IBC. D'Amato, who has been bucking Jim Norris, selected Lence as the man to produce Patterson's first title defense.

Maybe the match will develop into a rousing success when Patterson and Jackson arrive at the Polo Grounds, but Lence already has flunked his test as a pugilistic propagandist.

Though New Yorkers are turning a cold shoulder on the event, there's plenty of interest in the outcome in our area. For the decision rendered at the Polo Grounds will determine the future of Pete Rademacher's zany ring "career."

If Jackson lifts the crown, the scheduled bout between Patterson and Rademacher will be canceled. Should Jackson score an upset, Lence already has a rematch arranged for the Polo Grounds Sept. 17.

—Pete Will Be Rooting for Floyd

So Rademacher will find himself in the unusual position of rooting for his future opponent. Patterson must win or the script will be completed on the whackiest fight story of all time.

Though he has never had a pro fight, Rademacher is one of the most publicized fighters in the country. With an 0-0 record, he is better known than most of the guys Patterson has met. Have you ever heard of Eddie Godbold, Wes Bascom, Yvon Durelle, Don Grant or Calvin Brad? Well, they're a few of the men Patterson disposed of en route to the crown.

There's a possibility that Rademacher won't ever get in the ring as a pro, but he's already had his day. It took place in Columbus Tuesday when the city and state observed "Pete Rademacher Day." Boxers have been belted from here to eternity without such recognition but, of course, they didn't start at the top like Pete.

For the first time since Ben Brown hung up his gloves, Atlantans are showing an interest in boxing. And Rademacher has stirred up more commotion around the state than any fighter since the late W. L. Stribling. In fact, there's so much interest in Rademacher that Jack Hurley probably could stage the bout at Poncey and draw a packed house.

The likeable Rademacher will pay his first official visit to Atlanta Wednesday, but it will be a closed affair at the Federal Penitentiary. He's bringing along a couple of sparring partners, and will box a few rounds.

It doesn't matter how the Rademacher spectacular ends. Already it's the story of the year in boxing.

Mick's Slugging Bee Murders White Sox

Mantle Socks for Circuit, Yanks Apply Power, 10-6

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—Mickey Mantle walloped a tape-measure home run, a three-run triple, a double and a single tonight as New York's first place Yankees moved to a 5½-game lead with a 10-6 victory over the second place Chicago White Sox.

Mantle, whose triple capped a five-run seventh inning that junked a 6-4 Chicago lead in the opener of this crucial three-game set, became the first American Leaguer to hit for the cycle since June 4, 1952, when Larry Doby, then with Cleveland, did it against Boston.

The 4-for-5 night hoisted Mantle back into the AL bat lead with a .367 average. Boston's Ted Williams slipped to second at .360 with one hit in three trips against Kansas City.

The Yankees, blowing a 3-0 lead set up on Harry Simpson's two-run homer in the first and Mantle's 25th homer of the year, estimated at 465 feet into the deep right-center field bleachers in the second, leveled the Sox with only three hits in the big seventh.

Elston Howard opened the frame with a triple off Millard Howell, third of five Sox pitchers, and scored on a wild pitch. Jerry Coleman then walked and Jack Harshman relieved, only to walk pinch-hitting Enos Slaughter on four pitches. Tony Kubek walked to load the bases and Gil McDougald picked up the fourth consecutive base on balls on a 3-2 count to force across the tying run.

Mantle then sent Harshman's next pitch deep to left field, where Minnie Minoso made a leaping stab at the ball that deflected it away from the seats to prevent a grand-slammer. Harshman got out of the inning with no further trouble but was hung with his fifth defeat in 12 decisions.

In all, the Yankees collected 15 hits.

Dick Drott Fans 14 In Blanking Giants

Rookie Cub Stops New York On Four-Hit Pitching, 4-0

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Rookie Dick Drott mowed down the New York Giants with 14 strikeouts today and yielded only four hits in pitching the Chicago Cubs to a 4-0 triumph.

The strapping righthander, recently turned 21, contained the Giants with his fast ball, fast curve and change up.

Drott, purchased this spring from Los Angeles after he had compiled a 13-10 record and led the Pacific Coast League in strikeouts with 184, boosted his strikeout mark for the season to 112 and his won-lost record to 9-8. It was his third shutout.

The Cubs backed Drott with eight hits off an assortment of four Giant pitchers. They bunched four of them for three runs in the fourth inning that sent Ray Monzant, making his first start, to the showers. Walt Moryn's two-run double keyed the big inning in which Bob Speake, Ernie Banks and Lee Walls contributed singles.

Speake added the fourth run with a homer in the fifth, his eighth of the season.

Drott's total of 112 strikeouts boosted him to second place among National League hurlers this season. Jack Sanford of the Philadelphia Phillies leads with 116.

Drott walked only one batter, Dan O'Connell, the second man he faced, then struck out Willie Mays and Bob Thomson.

Marciano Sees Faults, but Now Feels Rademacher in Pro Class

Ex-Heavy Champ Watches Sparring Session, Predicts Quick Finish in Aug. 22 Title Bout

By GEORGE CUNNINGHAM
Constitution Sports Writer

LAKE HUSTON, July 23—Thunderous applause from some 200 kids—and quite a few grownups—rocked Pete Rademacher's training pavilion as a sun-tanned figure walked through the door. Rocky Marciano is still a champion.

Then he climbed into the ring . . . but not to fight. Those days are "gone for good," he said. "I like it too well outside."

After a few words of appreciation to the large crowd which came to see him, Marciano climbed back through the ropes, leaned on a post and watched Rademacher go through a round each with Joe Gannon and Clarence Hinnant. That's the reason he's here.

Was he impressed?

His first comment after the leather had stopped being passed was, "This fellow don't look like no amateur to me. He looks like a pro."

Later at Rademacher's training cottage, Marciano was asked just how good a professional Rademacher appeared during the two rounds?

Rocky mulled this one quite a while. Then the truth, a Marciano trademark, came out:

"I consider Rademacher and Hinnant on an even keel. They would make an excellent match."

Hinnant, 175-pound sparring partner for Rademacher, is the world's ninth-ranked light heavyweight boxer. Rademacher is training to fight Floyd Patterson for the world's heavyweight championship.

Marciano continued, "No, I wasn't impressed with Pete's speed, but he has a good right hand and very good coordination for a big (210) man. His rights to the body were particularly good. Yes, you're right, Patterson never has been hit much in the body. That can be attributed probably to an excellent defense."

Rademacher's workout with Gannon proved futile. Gannon was wearing a massive face mask to protect his nose, and it also impaired his vision. But the Hinnant three-rounder was revealing.

"Did I see any faults?" Marciano answered, "but didn't you think they were obvious?" They were.

"I'm not here to train Pete," Marciano said. "I will tell him two or three things. I'll also spend three or four days with him in Seattle."

Rock thinks the fight will be short.

"Rademacher is the strong boy with the good right hand who will be trying to slip in that one punch. And Patterson will be going for a quick victory to impress his followers. It shou'd be a very interesting fight. I'll be there Aug. 22.

"If it does go a long distance, I'd have to give the nod to Patterson. I don't know whether Pete could last 15 rounds or not. It depends on the pace you gear yourself to. Patterson has gone 12 rounds, and I believe Pete's longest fight so far is about five rounds."

"Hinnant is fast, and the blows could be telling over a long grind. Yes, Patterson is considerably faster than Hinnant," Marciano admitted.

"Pete's very lucky, fortunate to get a chance at the title. He seems a much better fighter than I expected. He is settled, he sets the pace and, I repeat, the right hand is very good," Marciano said.

Asked about the Patterson-Hurricane Jackson battle Monday night, the Brockton bomber said, "Patterson probably will win. He's a much improved boy since the last match between the two. Jackson's improved, too, but I think Floyd will take him."

Marciano failed to answer only one question tossed at him: If you were still champion, would you accept a challenge from an amateur?

His answer: "No comment."

Patterson-Jackson Promoter Claims $104,000 Advance Sale

From Press Dispatches

Promoter Emil Lence, the surprise choice to put on Monday night's heavyweight title fight, claimed Tuesday that he has $104,000 in advance ticket sales and predicted a gate in excess of $300,000 for the bout.

Lence, a dressmaker in normal times, said the gate may reach $400,000 by the time champion Floyd Patterson enters the ring to defend his crown against Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson.

Meanwhile Patterson was found in excellent condition at his Greenwood Lake, N.Y., camp by the state athletic commission doctor. Patterson also sparred three rounds during the day while Jackson took the day off to pose for photographers at his Columbia, N.J., camp.

Buhl Beats Phillies On Two-Hitter, 1-0

Brave Hurler Wins 11th With 4th Over Philadelphia

MILWAUKEE, July 23 (AP)—The league-leading Milwaukee Braves beat Philadelphia, 1-0, tonight as Bobby Buhl hurled a two-hitter and took his fourth triumph in a row over the Phillies, who now have lost seven of their last eight games.

Buhl allowed only one batter to get as far as second base. Stan Lopata, getting one of the four walks off Buhl, went to second base in the fourth inning when Harry Anderson beat out a slow bounder with two men out. However Rip Repulski grounded out to end the threat.

The only other hit off Buhl was a single by Ed Bouchee in the sixth inning.

The Phillies lost a couple of hits when Red Schoendienst made a spectacular stop behind first base on a drive by Ed Bouchee in the fourth and in the ninth when Wes Covington made a diving shoestring catch by a line by Solly Hemus.

The victory was Buhl's 11th of the season against six losses.

The loss was the sixth in 15 decisions for Simmons who went all the way allowing six hits, including Johnny Logan's second inning triple which scored Del Crandall, who had singled ahead of him.

Schoendienst singled in the eighth, his last time at bat, running his hitting streak to 20 straight games.

Here's at Least One Sure Way To Cool Yanks

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP). The New York Yankees returned home to some surprise improvements at Yankee Stadium tonight—an air-conditioned dugout and canopy-covered bullpens.

A curtain of cold air, barring warm air, is forced across the face of the Yankee dugout through ducts, similar to the system used at Crosley Field in Cincinnati. The visitors' dugout at the Stadium is not air-conditioned.

Podres' Five-Hitter Curtails Cardinals, 1-0

ST. LOUIS, July 23 (AP)—Brooklyn's Johnny Podres shutout the St. Louis Cardinals with a masterful five-hitter tonight, 1-0, besting Sam Jones, who gave the Dodgers just three hits.

Podres never before had pitched a complete game in St. Louis, in seven previous tries spread over four seasons. In reversing his luck tonight, for his eighth triumph against three defeats, he did not allow a runner to reach third.

The Dodgers scorad their run in the second inning, the one less-than-neat frame Jones experienced.

The Dodgers kept their mid-summer pennant drive going. It was their 11th victory in 13 games and kept them a game behind first place Milwaukee.

Pirates Trim Redlegs In 15 Innings, 6-3

CINCINNATI, July 23 (AP)—Pittsburgh's Pirates twice blew a one-run lead tonight before punching out three runs on four hits and an error in the 15th inning that trimmed Cincinnati's Redlegs, 6-3. Bob Skinner belted two home runs for Pittsburgh.

Pirate starter Vernon Law pitched his way through all but the last two outs of the marathon game, dealing out nine scattered hits to the Redlegs.

Skinner started off the winning rally with a single, and scampered to third when Redleg reliefer Brooks Lawrence scooped up a bunt by Bill Virdon but threw wild to first.

Dick Groat singled in what proved the winning run and the Pirates added insurance markers on a single by Frank Thomas and Bill Mazeroski's double.

The Pirates had carved out an early 2-1 lead, but Redleg first-sacker George Crowe tied it up in the ninth with his 23rd home run of the season.

Skinner blasted his second homer of the game in the twelfth inning, but Jerry Lynch matched that in the Redleg half of the inning to knot the score at 3-3.

TENDING PLATE FOR POUNDS IS SUMMER JOB FOR TOWNS

By MICKEY LOGUE

A good hitter usually advances in baseball. And sometimes a football player's future also depends on how well he does at the plate.

Such is the case with Georgia end Bobby Towns. There is one difference, though. This plate is on the dining room table at his Athens' home.

Towns is one of the few players eating himself into shape for the fast approaching football season.

While beefy linemen throughout the land toil diligently to shed surplus suet, Bobby is busily swinging a mean fork in the effort to add pounds.

Towns played first string halfback on the freshman team last fall. After his tour with the Bullpups, he was switched to end during spring practice.

His hurdler's speed and sticky fingers make Towns a natural for one of the flank slots left vacant by the graduation of Red Roberts and Roy Wilkins. But the 170 pounds sufficient for half-backing are put to considerable strain in blocking the tall, 200-plus tackles floating around the Southeastern Conference.

Thus, Head Coach Wallace Butts advised Bobby to refrain from taking a strenuous summer job and to concentrate on gaining weight. The advice has paid off in 10 pounds so far.

BOBBY TOWNS
"The Eggs and I"

On Bobby's daily menu are —ughh—a couple of raw eggs and a glass of milk. As sports publicist Dan MacGill says, "He'll deserve anything he gains."

Husky tackle Bob Sedlock probably has little sympathy for Towns' pound dilemma. Can you blame a guy who's spending all his time avoiding the table and swaddled in a sweat suit trying to keep in the 260ish bracket?

Dave Lloyd, sophomore center transfer from Texas Tech, considers himself very fortunate. Lloyd had been a "rough neck" with an oil company drilling in the Gulf off the coast of Louisiana. But when Hurricane Audrey struck the area, he was visiting in Athens.

Charlie Britt, one-half of Georgia's sensational sophomore quarterback tandem, is attending summer school and playing lots of golf. The other half—Tommy Lewis—is working for an Atlanta paint company. Veteran QB Billy Hearn recently visited in Athens.

Guard Vernon Cunard is loading baggage for Delta Air Lines.

Sophomore fullback candidate Mel Borum is employed by one of the finest fullbacks America ever produced. He drives a truck for the Frank Sinkwich Furniture Co. in Athens.

Capt. Jefferson Beauregard Davis, leading punt returner in the country last year, is working for the highway department, as are quarterback Charlie Byars and halfback Gene Littleton.

Guard Don Soberdash and brother Al are building muscles at a Dunbar, Pa., mining outfit. Four tackles are in summer school. They're Larry Lancaster, Don Leebern, Nat Dye and Sedlock.

Consolo's Single Saves 1-0 Shutout for Sullivan

Four Kansas City Runners Reach Third, But Bosox Protect Plate

BOSTON, July 23 (AP)—Billy Consolo atoned for two fielding lapses by singling home the game's only run as Boston edged Kansas City 1-0 tonight behind the 10-hit pitching of Frank Sullivan.

Four Kansas City runners reached third base but a combination of clutch hurling by Sullivan and timely defensive support choked off the A's threats.

Sullivan, who struck out 9 and walked none, came up with his ninth victory and second shutout of the season.

Crax Enter First On Mobile's Bats

Bears Belt Nashville Pair; Lookouts Batter Pels, 16-11

From Press Dispatches

The Atlanta Crackers returned to the top of the Southern Assn. heap Tuesday—without lifting a bat.

Mobile's seventh-place Bears knocked Nashville from the lead with a doubleheader victory while the Crackers and Little Rock took a night off due to rain. Mobile edged the Vols, 3-2, in a 10-inning opener, then swamped the Vols, 12-2, in the nightcap.

Birmingham and Memphis were also idled by rain but Chattanooga poured over eight runs in the ninth inning of a slugfest at New Orleans to take a 16-11 victory from the Pels. The Lookouts collected 22 hits but still needed the big ninth to break an 8-8 tie.

Hard, Seixas Pace Field In Lawn Play

HAVERFORD, Pa., July 23 (UP) — Darlene Hard and Vic Seixas paced top-seeded players through the second round of the 58th annual Pennsylvania lawn tennis championships today, although third-ranked Gil Shea, Los Angeles, suffered an upset at the hands of Henry Van Renssalaer, Greenwich, Conn.

Renssalaer, ranked 37 in the tourney, sidelined Shea with a 6-3, 1-6, 6-3 victory to advance into the third round.

Seixas advanced with a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Fred McNair, Washington, D.C., while Australian Davis Cupper Ashley Cooper had a struggle with Richard Weslie, Battle Creek, Mich., before gaining a 3-6, 6-2, 6-1 victory.

Miss Hard eliminated Jan Silbershcr, South Orange, N.J., 6-2, 6-1, and then defeated Mrs. Arklay Richards, Boston, 6-1, 6-0, to advance into the third round. Mrs. Pratt won handily over Adria Fisher, Long Island, N.Y., 6-1, 6-0, and then beat Linda Vail, Oakland, Calif., 6-2, 6-3.

RAINY DAY NOTES

Riddle, O'Donnell Puzzling Keys To Crax' Stretch Drive for Flag

By AL THOMY
Constitution Sports Writer

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 23. Rain drops from a rainout:

An encouraging sign of the last two Atlanta Cracker games has been the hopeful rejuvenation of first baseman Buck Riddle's batting ways. He had a double and single in the closing game at Birmingham, and a triple and single here Monday night, both hits instrumental in beating Little Rock.

"I certainly hope he has snapped out of his slump," said manager Buddy Bates, after the Tuesday night game with the Travs was called due to wet grounds. "We'll need some offensive support at first base in the stretch drive. I told Buck the other day that all I wanted from him was one hit a game." . . . With the pitching well-established, the Crackers find their greatest need in the big haul to be in the outfield and at first base. Bates has promised to use pitcher Jack O'Donnell in right field for more bat punch.

And O'Donnell's recent ineptness on the mound has been a mystery. O'Donnell's explanation is that he's "tired," but recently he had a rest period of some seven days. Of course, he has worked in 42 games and could be physically rundown. Any help he can give during the last part of the season will be valuable, either as a pinch-hitter or a spot relief pitcher. With the mound staff appearing solid, he won't be needed as often as before. . . . And speaking of the mound corps, Jerry Nelson's debut was anything but sensational. He was rapped hard by Little Rock, and all the way down the line they say you've got to win the one-run games to be a contender for the pennant. Well, the Crackers have won 17, lost 14.

"In the majority of games we've had to come from behind," said Bates. "Thus, we haven't lost most of the games in which we were leading; it's just that we were shy a run of tying. And that occurred because we got behind early." . . . and Bates has no rose-colored dream of playing only .500 ball on the road. "No Sir," he says.

Little Rock manager Al Evans also sees Nashville as the "team to beat." He explains: "They have few weaknesses. I will say this: We've given them a fit here. They've won only two games in Little Rock; we've won only two in Sulphur Dell, where they're really tough." The Travelers, incidentally, have lost only three series at home this season. They seem to be another team on the road . . . Evans continued: "If I ever find we're out of the race for the pennant, I would use my best pitchers at the top clubs—all the top clubs." . . . This time last season the Crackers were in second place, two games out of first. Birmingham led the league at that point.

The Crackers have won seven of their last nine games, and Nashville has cranked up after having its lowest won-loss run. The Vols lost five straight, and six of eight, before going on their latest rampage. Others hope there's another losing streak in the Vols' future. . . . A few hits from slumping Bob Montag will help on the current road trip. Thus far he's gone 1-for 18. . . . Baseball experts on the road compare Crackers' Ben Johnson to Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies. Both throw the gopher pitch regularly. Johnson has given up 23 home runs. A scout explained: "He knows what he's doing out there, and sometimes he comes in with a real fast-ball. Like Roberts, he has exceptional control." With a 10-4 record, Johnson proves that well-spaced gophers don't hurt too much.

On Wednesday, Little Rock and Atlanta meet in a double dip, beginning at 8 p.m. (Atlanta time). In the first game, it will probably be Corky Valentine (3-3) against Harry Taylor (1-1), while in the long one, Don Nottebart (12-6) against George Brunet (10-9). . . . Nottebart has worked two straight shutouts, while the Travs haven't gotten a run for Brunet in a month.

Rademacher's 'Team' Won't Scout Patterson

LAKE HUSTON, July 23—Trainer George Chemeres announced Tuesday that neither he nor any of the Pete Rademacher entourage would atttend the Floyd Patterson-Hurricane Jackson heavyweight championship fight Monday night at the Polo Grounds.

"We're not interested in what Patterson does in that fight. It's the one at Seattle Aug. 22 that we're working for. And I don't want Pete to get off schedule in his work," Chemeres said.

Rademacher will put on an exhibition Wednesday at Atlanta's Federal Penitentiary and Saturday at Augusta's Camp Gordon. That's all the outside appearances the challenger will make before leaving for Seattle at a still undetermined date.

'Wrong-Way' Butler Right for Piedmont

By Bert Prather

Jack Butler, who hits the ball from the "wrong" side, may have a lot of right-handers swapping in their clubs if he doesn't quit firing those subpar rounds out at Pete Cole's Piedmont Park course.

Bert Prather

The little left-hander, warming up for the United States Golf Assn.'s National Publinx championship starting Monday in Hershey, Pa., carded a six-under-par 28 during a friendly game with Cole Sunday. Record for the nine-hole course is 27.

Jack, runner-up in the National left-handers' tournament a few years back, will be accompanied by Gordon Hammond of Columbus to Hershey. J. D. Croxton, USGA sectional Committeman, will join them Sunday.

Bobby Stowe is looking for a big turnout for Friday's pro-amateur at Carrollton's Sunset Hills Country Club.

The pro-am will serve as a warmup for the Carrollton Amateur Invitational Saturday and Sunday. The latter tournament is to be limited to 96 qualifiers and ties. More than 60 have qualified to date with tournament chairman Bill Warren showing the way with a three-under-par 69.

Don Bradford advises that this year's Peach Blossom four-ball tournament at Macon's Idle Hour CC will be held Sept. 13-15 with qualifying set for Sept. 5-12. This tournament is usually a late spring fixture but had to be postponed three months because of construction on the course. All 18 greens have been changed to Tifton 328.

Allison Adds Triple to Three-Hitter And Edges Brookhaven Nine, 3-2

Posts 216, One Roll in Tourney

Pitcher Billy Allison is not one to let a three-hitter go down the drain. Brookhaven Post 65's defending State American Legion Junior baseball champions had a 3-2 bruise to prove it Wednesday morning.

Allison topped off his mound gem with a triple in the bottom of the ninth that severed a 2-2 deadlock and left Mickey Cochran Post 216 unbeaten in Fifth District Tournament play.

Left-hander Al Phillips' sharp seven-inning relief stint led power-packed Post One to a 9-2 triumph over Avondale Post 66 in the opener Tuesday at Glenn Field.

Posts 66 and 65 meet in the losers bracket of the double-elimination tournament Wednesday at 4 p.m. at College Park Field. Winners 216 and One collide at 8.

Right-hander Allison fanned five and walked two in handing Post 216 its 12th victory in 13 outings this summer. His pitching opponent, Pete DuBose, allowed only seven hits and whiffed seven while walking two.

Allison held the losers hitless until the fifth when Stan Gann followed DuBose's single with a run producing one-baser.

Denny McDuffie led Post One's 16-hit assault with a double and two singles. Larry Hampton tripled and singled. Johnny Burton, Lloyd Sutter, Jimmy White and Mickey Phillips each had two safeties.

When Ronnie Gilstrap grew wild in the third inning, Al Phillips came on with the bases loaded to sew up the Post 66ers the rest of the way. Robbie Robinson's single in the eighth and Paul Ard's in the seventh were the only hits off Phillips.

LEGION NOTES — Moultrie scored five times in the fifth inning to beat Albany, 6-3, in the first round of Second District Tournament. Right-hander Durwood Littleton's seven-hitter turned the trick for Moultrie . . . They continue their best-of-three series Wednesday at Sylvester . . . Joseph N. Neel Post 3 of Macon and Columbus Post 35 will meet in the first round of the State Tournament at Columbus Aug. 2-5. Post 3 was the only entry in District 6. . . . Post 35 represents District 3. Columbus has beaten Macon twice this season. . . . Thomaston took District 4 honors by default and will meet the First District champs. . . . Savannah Posts 36, 135 and 199, Statesboro Post 90, Waynesboro Post 120 and Brookett Post 203 are battling for First District honors. . . . Athens Post 185 and Battey Post 4 of Augusta open a best-of-five series for the Tenth District title with a doubleheader at Ag Hill Friday. Monday, also at 1 p.m., they play a pair at Augusta. . . . Ninth District: Commerce meets Dahlonega Post 239 Nuggets at 6 p.m. at Toccoa, and Gainesville tests Toccoa at 8:15.

In a non-league game involving amateur teams, Acworth stopped East Atlanta, 5-3, behind the four-hit pitching of Johnny Scroggs.

DAHLONEGA'S JENKINS WHIFFS 19 PER GAME

Big League scouts are hovering around a 17-year-old boy in Dahlonega like bees around a hive even though he is not eligible to be signed by the pros yet.

Some cold statistics on the 1957 pitching record of Kenneth Jenkins, a 175-pound southpaw with a blazing fast ball, give indication as to the "why."

During his final year at Union County High in Blairsville and with Dahlonega's Nuggets (Post 236) of the Junior American Legion wars, Jenkins has:

Struck out an average of 19 batters per game.

Pitched three no-hitters, two one-hitters, three two-hitters, five three-hitters. (Playing with a mediocre team, he lost one of the no-hitters and two of the three-hitters, having a 10-3 record).

Jenkins will be pitching in the Ninth District Legion tournament this week at Toccoa, and will not be eligible for signing until Sept. 10.

Jack Roberts, who coaches the Dahlonega team, reports that no fewer than 10 scouts have been on hand each time Jenkins pitched. And he's been pitching for the last six weeks with two badly blistered fingers on his pitching hand.

FLANIGAN, ROBINSON AT THROTTLE

Local 10 Is on Faster Schedule Than Ever in Mad Run for Top

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Everyone loves a story about a poor boy who comes out of the coal mine and becomes a millionaire.

It is that same quirk of human nature that makes everyone love the rags-to-riches story that will have so many folks pulling for the Local 10 team in the Atlanta Amateur Baseball Federation tournament, starting Saturday.

Local 10, in this case, is not a train that stops at every cross roads, but a baseball team sponsored by a union at the General Motors plant in Doraville.

In years past Local 10 has usually been a run of the mill amateur nine, made up chiefly of young and old players from Chamblee, Doraville, Tucker and Norcross—plus some who work for GM.

This 1957 team—which will open its campaign for the city championship and a trip to compete in the national tournament at Flint, Mich., in a Saturday night battle against Georgia State College on the Center Hill diamond—is no run of the mill outfit.

Local 10, guided by Manager Bill Fite and business manager Walter Little, has risen from humble beginnings to gianthood and stands ready to battle annual powers like Jackson Loan, Shurbutt Service, Welcome All and Milstead on equal terms.

Once lightly regarded Local 10 currently is tied with Jackson Loan's perennial champs for the leadership of the City League, the strongest of all the AABF's loops.

How did the folks from Doraville get that tough all of a sudden?

Well, the nucleus was there already. Clutch-hitting Bill Barr at first base and outfielder-pilot Fite have long been two of the most feared hitters in the Atlanta area. Both are smashing the ball for .400 averages now.

Shortstop Gene Wilson, two years out of Chamblee High; outfielder Ray Spruill, out of Auburn; long-ball-hitting catcher Jack (Flop) Hudson; "old head" Emmett Mize, who can play anywhere; outfielder George Herrington and Theron Chewning, one of the best curve-ball pitchers in the vicinity, are all among the better players.

But two other factors made the "difference." First: two youngsters — Jim Flanigan and Jimmy Robinson—have blossomed into two of the most unfathomable pitchers in the Federation. Second: three Southern Tech stars and their coach, Harry Lockhart, have cast their lots with the Local 10s.

First sacker-third sacker Harvey Griffin, one of the STI lads, has poled three homers in the last four games. Frank Babbitt, with fleetness afoot and a great throwing arm, is an exceptional outfielder. Al Summerford is as good as any second baseman around, they say. And Lockhart, himself, is a real stickout.

Flanigan, 22, and Robinson, 21, both played in The Constitution-sponsored North-South All-Star game after finishing at Tucker and Carrollton high schools. Flanigan, a powerful hitter, has fanned 165 batters this year. And Robinson has been "rough," too.

Four other high school stars of recent vintage have also made their presences imperative—catcher Freddie Bailey (Tucker), any-position Charlie Weathers (Tucker) and a North Fulton duo of pitcher Joe Sewell and Johnny Wilshire.

That's the story of why Local 10 is running "ahead of schedule" this year.

Confederates, Rebels Meet For BR Title

Robert E. Lee will turn over in his grave. Now the Rebels and Confederates are fighting among themselves.

That's right. Battle lines have been drawn for Wednesday night at McKoy Field when the DeKalb Confederates meet the DeKalb Rebels for the District Three Babe Ruth championship. Firing begins at 8 o'clock.

Final berths were awarded Tuesday after the Rebels blasted Glenwood Hills, 11-1, and the Confederates socked West Georgia, 12-0.

Tommy Lucas, who received a league batting certificate between games for his loop-topping .583 average, paced the Rebels with three singles good for five RBIs. Hank Mullins toiled the distance, allowing three hits.

Twirler Jimmy McLelland likewise spaced three safeties for the Confederates and struck out nine.

AS I SEE IT

Imogene, Sid Rejoin, Make Us All Happy

By PAUL JONES

Televiewers everywhere are happy to see that Sid Caesar and his first TV wife, Imogene Coca, have kissed and made up.

Those of us who were fortunate enough to own TV sets during the infancy of television recall with pleasure the great shows which once starred Sid and Imogene in some of the funniest skits ever seen on the pint-sized screen.

It was on the Show of Shows, the old NBC 90-minute extravaganza that viewers first became acquainted with Sid and Imogene. It was on this show that Max Liebman also introduced such outstanding talent as the Billy Williams Quartet, Mata and Hari, the dancers; the Hamilton Trio and Marguerite Piazza.

There hasn't been a show before—or since—quite like the Show of Shows. By today's production costs, such a program could not be produced profitably.

Jones

It is a pity, however, some of the old kinescopes of these shows haven't been shown as summer replacements. Some of the television fare we now have would look pale by comparison.

But, to get back to Sid and Imogene.

Few people out of the trade ever knew what caused the bust-up between the two stars. The absence has certainly helped the audience's heart to grow fonder for the team.

IT IS SIGNIFICANT that neither of the stars has fared well on their own. Miss Coca left Sid's side three years ago amid tears and confusion. It was never clear why. Some suspected she was burned up because Sid was getting more money than she was and he was getting the greatest share of the publicity as a result of their comedy skits on the Show of Shows.

Miss Coca was, at the time, under contract to NBC-TV, and her salary was one of the highest being paid to a woman entertainer at the time. But, like Sid's second and third wives, she was probably jealous of his great popularity and didn't like playing the supporting role. She left Caesar, attempting to go it alone.

Sid didn't have to look far for another mate. Nanette Fabray joined him as a wife. After winning an Emmy, Nanette felt she had "arrived." She struck out on her own—and she has "struck out" almost since then.

Sid Caesar

Nanette was followed by Janet Blair. But, Miss Blair was no match for the talented Imogene and Nanette.

But none have demonstrated the exceptional comedy talent of Miss Coca.

It is good to see this team reunited. Now, if they would only resurrect the Show of Shows—with the original cast. Wouldn't that be a shocker?

MRS. LILLIAN F. McNAIR, of Atlanta, writes: "Your column about a regular TV program like Billy Graham's is one of the most refreshing I have read in a long time. Frankly speaking, if Billy Graham had a regular TV program any night it would be the best thing that ever happened to the viewing public."

• • •

BERNICE J. ANDERSON of Atlanta, writes: "Do you think Billy Graham will ever have a regular program on TV and do you think he would accept a regular sponsor?"

Yes.

He's Leaving State To Build His Plant

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Puerto Rico may not know it yet, but a Georgia businessman is making plans to go into business there.

He wants to build a manufacturing plant.

He would like to have built it in Georgia—probably a long time ago.

Jim Montgomery

But the particular products he is interested in manufacturing are made in this country by only a few large companies with integrated production—from raw material to finished product.

So, even if he could obtain sufficient quantities of semi-finished goods, he couldn't build his plant in Georgia and still be competitive.

That's what he said when he called the other day to ask some questions about Puerto Rico's industrial inducements.

This was certainly a new twist.

We thought back to all the statements we've heard from the many Georgians dedicated to furthering the development of the state's industrial economy.

Nearly every community has a group actively involved in this kind of work.

Many are searching desperately for a new plant.

They say they offer (and most of them do) an extremely favorable business climate, planned or zoned industrial sites, a large pool of labor (unskilled and semi-skilled) from which to choose, good transportation facilities, proximity to raw materials, adequate utilities, civic-minded citizens, etc.

But looming most important in their list of inducements is labor—those available to man the factories.

Georgia brags that its citizens, however unskilled, can be trained quickly to handle any manufacturing tasks; that their productivity is superior; in short, that they turn out a day's work for a day's pay.

This is a direct appeal to manufacturers located in more highly unionized areas of the country, where production rates are said to be determined by organized labor, not management.

In other words, it implies, Georgia labor is cheap—or relatively cheap.

Reasons for Choosing Puerto Rico

So why not build this new plant in Georgia?

Primarily, the man told us, because labor costs are too high—because he can't meet the minimum wage requirements and still produce competitively within that industry.

It sounded as though Georgia labor may not be as cheap as its detractors claim—though wage differences still favor workers in many other states.

But the wage gap is being narrowed—slowly but surely.

He Proceeds With His Plan

Meanwhile, the Georgia businessman is going ahead with his planning for Puerto Rico, where wage rates are considerably lower and where there's also a most attractive (to him) free tax ride for 10 years.

Puerto Rico obviously needs such industry.

Georgia is and will be better off with industries that are willing to pay both their fair share of taxes and fair wage rates that will add to its economic progress.

Weather Data Spill Grains

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Grain futures eased on the Board of Trade today, influenced by liquidation and hedge selling.

Extreme losses of more than 2 cents in wheat and corn and more than 3 cents in soybeans were partly recovered in late dealings.

New style wheat closed ⅝ to 1⅜ lower, corn ⅝ to 1¼ lower, oats ¼ to ½ lower, rye unchanged to ½ lower, soybeans 1 to 1¾ lower and lard 12 to 20 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Favorable weather and crop news together with lack of export sales tended to weaken all grains and soybeans. Another factor in the downturn of corn prices was the desire on the part of producers to market old-crop corn to make room for new-crop wheat. This brought selling into corn futures.

Wheat was weak during most of the session and the downturn led to scattered stop-loss selling. Some support entered the market toward the end of the session and wheat recovered somewhat from the day's lowest levels.

Cotton Drops 50 to 90 Cents

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 50 to 90 cents a bale lower today.

The market held in lower brackets throughout the session. Trading remained quiet as dealers awaited possible legislation on cotton. Dealers, however, were becoming convinced no legislative moves will be taken at this session of Congress to affect the 1958 crop.

Favorable crop and weather news was responsible for selling, although some hedge sales were reported in nearby deliveries. Light scattered rains fell over parts of Texas. They were needed.

Dealers said recent reports from the country noted a vast improvement in cotton crop progress during the past four weeks. Some reports pointed to the possibility that per acre yields this year in most sections of the belt will surpass previous records.

Fewer Are Employed In State

Nonfarm employment in Georgia declined by 3,300 workers between May and June, but was only 1,800 below last year's all-time June high of 969,900.

Less than 25 per cent of the over-the-month loss occurred in the Atlanta area, where 341,150 persons held nonfarm jobs in June.

Among the factors blamed for the loss were school closings, factory shut-downs due to labor disputes, high inventories, machinery repairs and changes in production methods.

Greatest employment gains occurred in the construction industry, which in the state as a whole enrolled an additional 3,100 employes. This brought the June tally to 58,300—a level 500 above the previous all-time high reached in June, 1956.

The Atlanta gain in construction workers was 1,200, only 200 shy of last June's all-time high.

Textile mills continued their "long term" decline, losing 400 workers primarily in yarn, thread and broadwoven mills. There was also a 400 employe loss in transportation equipment manufacture, according to the Georgia Labor Dept. report. Retail trade gained 1,500 workers in the state, 500 in Atlanta.

FINANCIAL VIEWS

Cup of Coffee Cost 1c At 1850 Delmonico's

By ELMER C. WALZER
(United Press Financial Editor)

NEW YORK, July 23—All this talk of inflation and the value of hedging against it by buying common stocks is bringing out some interesting things such as the time you could buy a cup of coffee for a penny.

That was back in 1850 and it was in Delmonico's at 494 Pearl St., New York City. Some swank parties were held in that restaurant those days and many years thereafter down to the days of Diamond Jim Brady and P. T. Barnum.

A brokerage firm letter writer picked up one of the menus from somewhere or other and printed it in his letter.

If you wanted a bowl of coffee or tea back there it cost twice as much as a cup—two cents.

4c BEEF STEAK

You could buy a bowl of soup for two cents, beef steak for four cents, and a whole pie for four cents. Fried or stewed liver then—before they knew it was good for anemia—was three cents. A regular dinner was 12 cents.

Now let's see what the wage earner made in a week. The National Industrial Conference Board records experts have this right at their finger tips. The worker got an average of seven cents an hour, and worked 62 hours a week.

The average take home pay—no income taxes at all and no other deductions—was $4.40 a week.

Now for stock prices. There weren't many stocks those days. The market was made up mostly of government bonds, railroad and canal bonds.

The farthest back one can go to get a stock index comparable with today is 1871. That's the Cowles Commission calculation, which is an extension of Standard & Poor's indexes.

Back in 1871, the equivalent of the Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was 4.90. Today it's around 49.

STOCKS HAVE RISEN

In other words stocks have risen 10 times or 900 per cent.

But beef steak has risen 12,400 per cent from the four cents noted.

This proves that stocks haven't risen as much as food. But they've risen, and that's what Wall Street is saying:

"Buy stocks and hedge against inflation."

Wages today in manufacturing industries average $2.06 an hour and workers put in an average of 39.7 hours weekly.

Wages are up 2,843 per cent. Not as much as beef steak in a swank restaurant, but a lot more than a cup of coffee which is up 1,400 per cent.

No matter how you figure things, Wall Street is convinced that inflation is holding up stock prices and putting some higher.

NewCorporations Down This Year

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—New business incorporations in June and the six months ended June 30 were under the year ago figures, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. reported.

June incorporations totaled 11,154, down 6.7 per cent from 11,952 in June, 1956. For the six months, incorporation totaled 71,211, down 6.6 per cent from 76,257 in the like 1956 months.

Good Sales Likely Here For Months

By BOB WILLIMON

Business conditions will remain good in Georgia for the next few months and possibly may be even better than during the like period last year.

But maintaining this predicted high-level economy likely will force the state's manufacturers to further streamline production methods and seek new ways of economizing in the fields of marketing and distribution. Reasons:

The "possibility" of a further stiffening of consumer resistance to higher prices; a plentiful supply of most commodities. Other items figuring in the squeeze on Georgia's manufacturers include creeping price increases resulting from the steel hike and keener competition.

Such were the predictions and observations offered Tuesday in the Georgia Purchasing Agents Assn.'s June survey of general business conditions in the state. The survey, compiled by H. P. Williamson, is a summary of reports filed by a cross section of purchasing executives in the Georgia area.

Highlights of the survey in terms of majority reports:

Purchasing volume was greater in June than in May. Production increased, new orders ran "about the same," commodity prices generally were unchanged. Inventories were reported "leveling off or decreasing." There was little change in employment.

Most purchasing executives were reported cautious about making long-term commitments, and generally were buying on a 30-60-day supply basis. Commitments on capital equipment were being made only far enough in advance to meet construction schedules.

Practically all reports indicated a ready availability of most all commodities within a reasonable lead time. Exceptions included structural steel, steel alloys and certain types of other short-supply items.

Prices were reported up on chemicals, flour, lard, sugar, paper and paper products; down on copper, brass, ingots and aluminum conductor material.

Mart Slips Again On Light Volume

Analysts Still See Period Of Correction After Rises

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—The stock market slipped further into the doldrums today with prices mixed on the lightest turnover since June 27. Volume dwindled to 1,840,000 shares compared with 1,950,000 yesterday.

Price movements of leading stocks were narrow, kept generally within a point or so. Even among specialties, which have provided some excitement in the sluggish trading of recent sessions, there were few features.

The market was irregular at the start and remained so throughout the session, although there was a late trend toward improvement among pivotal issues. This put the averages on the upside, but for all stocks traded there was a preponderance of losses.

DROP OF EARNINGS

A drop in second-quarter earnings for Republic Steel and Ford Motor Co. was dampening to investors' sentiment. But the rise in steel output for the third straight week and the increase in national production to a new record in the second quarter were items on the more positive side.

Meanwhile, Wall Street analysts continued to see the market in a period of correction following its rise close to the all-time highs last week.

LOSERS AHEAD

Of the 1,134 issues traded, declines outnumbered advances 490 to 385. There were 26 new highs for the year and 35 new lows.

Of the 15 most active stocks, there were eight losers, six gainers and one unchanged.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Gainers included Fairchild Camera, A&P and Humble Oil. Among losers were Woodley Petroleum, Flying Tiger and Pacific Petroleum.

Corporate bonds declined on light volume.
